"What We Are Is..."

This year's Yearbook theme is meant to expess the diversity of our student body, not in terms of ethnicity, but rather in terms of the diversity of talent and abilities on display on any given day here at Encinal High School. We wanted to look inside. A lively discussion ensued. We decided on the theme "What We Are Is..." and then went to work trying to describe Encinal High School. We at Encinal are many things, but after much discussion and thought we concluded with:

Celebrated Dedicated

Educated Artisticated

Motivated Animated

Inspirated ENCINATED

We are celebrated in the many ways the Encinal Community comes together in joyful celebration of our community and what we do here. Rallies, assemblies, dances, Homecoming, just to name a few, are the public events.

We are dedicated in the quiet pursuit of excellence. Students and teachers alike share in the dedication to learning here at Encinal. Besides academics there are many dedicated parents supporting EHS. Students and teachers also demonstrate their dedication to causes outside of the Encinal Community.

We are educated because all are engaged in whole heartedly or the learning process. Students come from many different backgrounds and the highly educated staff at EHS seek to teach at all levels of learning. Encinal offers sheltered classes, AVID, college prep, and honors and Advanced Placement classes.

We are artisticated (ok, we took a little artistic license here and made up our own word). Students who are interested in visual and performing arts have a myriad of choices. From art 1-4, AP studio art, 3-D design 1-2, ceramics 1-2, drama 1-3, intermediate band, advanced concert band, jazz band, beginning guitar, and choir classes are offered. Other than these classes offered, there are many students who draw, paint, or play musical instruments outside of school in their leisure time. On top of that, there are occasional talent shows and the AP history songfest for the "nerds" to show off their artistic talent.

We are motivated. No matter what the obstacles are, Encinal students are willing to face and overcome these challenges. We know that we are not fighting these challenges alone because many times our classmates, friends, or teachers are willing to assist us in overcoming life's barriers.

We are animated. Encinal students can be serious, but also humorous at times. By doing so, we bring life to any aspect of life making time at school a wonderful time. Take a tour around our campus and you will see many lively faces. Encinal students are very friendly and can always bring laughter and life to everyone they encounter.

We are inspirated, inspirated to achieve. Can there be any doubt that we at EHS are inspirated? Look around at the many achievements of the EHS student body, the enthusiasm on the faces and the way we encourage one another to succeed.

Most importantly, we are encinated! No one will ever find an Encinal student or staff member without Jet Pride, especially during homecoming week. Our school is blasted with pride as students dress in school or class colors. At athletic games, Encinal team members and supporters are loud and proud. Pride in Encinal and pride in ourselves resonates on the campus everyday... Can you hear us now?

In Loving Memory Of

Grace Anne Alcaraz

November 27, 1987 - February 5, 2005

Strong. Spirited. Motivated. Friendly. There are not enough words to describe the Class of 2005's treasurer, Grace Anne Alcaraz. Grace was truly loved on the Encinal campus. She brought smiles to everyone around her. Grace was a positive force at Encinal. She was a proactive students and a leader among her peers. Afterschools and weekends, she could be found at Encinal events, supporting her school and class. Although she was diagnosed with a rare form of cancer, called Ewing's Sarcoma, during her junior year, she remained strong and attended school—keeping her place on the Honor Roll. Grace was wise beyond her years, always looking at the brighter side of things. She had a strong sense of self, and refused to see her friends down-spirited for her sake. A part of Encinal is missing because of the loss of Grace Anne, a teacher to us all.

Only The Best

God saw you getting tired, and a cure was not to be.
So He put His arms around you and whispered "Come to Me."
With tearful eyes we watched you suffer
and saw you fade away;
although we loved you dearly, we could not make you stay.
A golden heart stopped beating, hard working hands to rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.

Celebrated

This year we choose to celebrate the Encinal High School Community. Look around Jets, we have a lot to be proud of here and much to be thankful for. Our school, as diverse as it is, is one of harmony and respect for each other. We may all come from different backgrounds, but when we get here we are all as one, we are Jets. We celebrate all our backgrounds with mutual respect and rejoice in each other's cultures. Ever been to a Unity Week? The food, the costumes, the music... what a blast!

During Homecoming we get goose bumps of pride when we scream for our class at the assembly and represent our class by wearing our class colors. At the Big Game we realize how we are part of a much larger community of Jets when we see all the grads coming back and cheering right along with us to squash them Hornets.

Monthly, students are celebrated for "Student of the Month" awards for their excellent citizenship. Those with high academic achievements are rewarded with the "Academic E" to wear proudly. For the whole community, we take our Jet Pride on the road, competing in twenty-four different sports. If there is one thing you must know about Encinal, we are a celebration of both the individual and community achievements. With all of these events, everyone can share everything they have, making Encinal one big family. As Kool and the Gang's song says... "It's Celebration Time, Come on..." OK Encinal, let's celebrate.

Dance Team

This year's 2004-2005 Homecoming assembly was the best ever throughout the history of Encinal. Starting off with the Freshmen showing off their spirit to the Seniors' dance moves. Every class skit showed a plethora of talent and spirit. The skits brought a smile on everyone's face. It was also a time to get back at the Encinal staff. The Senior class came back and got on their favorite staff members for one last time, from Mr. Wilpitz to Mr. Sonneman. Austin Powers lost his mojo and had the Juniors find it for him; using Austin's time machine to go back in time. The Sophomore class had a better year with their Homecoming skit and dance than last year. Jacob Manibusan took the time to see what year fitted him in his dancing career; he found that the 70s was his groove. Last, but definitely not least, the Freshmen class had a tough Homecoming, but they over came it. This year, being their first year, will help them in the upcoming Homecomings. Later that day, everyone took their Homecoming spirit to the football field to see their fellow Jets play Pinole Valley. All throughout the week, each class' spirit rose more and more. The Homecoming score came very close. The class of 2006 took the lead this year with a score of 328 points. The Seniors took their time to decorate the back window of their cars to spell out "ENCINAL," but the class of 2007 didn't stay back; they came up with 13 points in the Homecoming games. Everyone thought this year's Homecoming skits were much better than they've been before. They gym was packed; all the seats were taken, and some of the students were on the floor because all the bleachers were full. Teachers were amused to see what students created. Each class wall had something special to see and each one was amusing to watch.

Homecoming Dance and Royal Court

On the night of October 23, 2004, the gym was full of students. During the middle of the dance, students gathered around the stage, waiting for Oscar Rojas to announce the 2004 Homecoming Royal Court. The nominees crossed their fingers and hoped. Soon, Oscar announced freshmen Lexi and Lexy, Jarrel Stewart and Ariana Shakeshaft. Next, the sophomore Duke Cameron Davis and Duchess Phoebe Reynolds. As Oscar revealed the Prince Michael Engel and Princess Chantelle Matthews to the junior class, a thundering applause echoed throughout the gym. The anticipation mounted as Oscar announced the Homecoming King and Queen of 2004. "The winners of the 2004 Homecoming King And Queen are... Marquita Price and Charlema Smith!" The volume of the students immediately rose, chairs filled the gym calling Marquita Price's name over and over. As Oscar was announcing Marquita's name he was interrupted that she was the first girl to become the Homecoming King. After Oscar announced Charlema Smith's name, everyone in the gym could see Charlema's tears falling from her eyes and the smile of a life time lightening up the room. The gracious Queen joined her King and the rest of the Homecoming Royal's court of 2004.

Big Game

People, guess what? Yesterday it is "The Big Game! Friday, November 12th is the day to remember. Teachers say that this game is or has been the biggest game ever against our rivals" The Hornets from Alameda High. People can't believe that 50 years have passed since the first Encin.. football team has played Throughout the night, our team put their hearts into the game. Our Varsity Cheerleaders put all their spirit into the game, cheering our players on. Their halftime show was too perfect; the electrical lines got hot enough to get turned off. but we still kept our spirits up. After halftime, our team came back onto the field full of motivation and a winning spirit from the coaches. In every snap and count the Jets were on it. Our team came very close to a tie with the Hornets by the end of the third quarter. However the Hornets came off the field as the winners with a score of 50 to 36. It was the highest scoring game since 1975. Every living soul had a bit of joy in them. All the Alumni players felt pain and joy for the players at the end of the game. Even though, the Jets did not triumph over the Hornets, we stumbled out heads up high and walked off the field with a winning face.

Right: The JV team raised their helmets to the sound of the marching band, to honor the American Flags before starting the game.

The crowd of football players overcome their strength by flipping over the smashed "Hornet Car" and took turns beating the car with a sledge hammer.

Andrea Foote, in a Jet mascot, gets ready to attack a hornet wasting around the field during the halftime show.

Keannon Wynn recieves a kickoff and dashes through Alameda players without being touched.

Cyrus Grant shakes off an Alameda player and runs for victory to a touchdown.

After receiving her degree in Philosophy, Katrina Staten began teaching the introductory Philosophy course at Portland State. Taking a break to raise her children, she left her job teaching to help run her family business, Field Stone Winery. When all of her children were grown, she found herself free to return to work full-time, and decided to work towards receiving a teacher credential. Receiving her teacher credential in 1991, she received a teaching job at Encinal in the Fall of 1992. She has been a devoted and active member of the Encinal staff ever since.

A member of the teaching staff for almost fourteen years, Katrina Staten is the embodiment of dedication at Encinal. Katrina, as she prefers to be called because "Ms. Staten is just too formal," truly makes an effort to connect to her students. Although she only teaches for three periods, Katrina chooses to teach an AP, CP and sheltered senior English course each day, feeling that it allows her to connect with a wider spectrum of students at Encinal. However, teaching three different courses means having to customize her curriculum for each class, but putting in the extra work to do this is no problem to Katrina. Being in Katrina's class doesn't just involve reading books, discussing, and writing essays. Katrina makes sure to spice up things in her class by participating in Performance Theater, performing monkey puppet shows with her many stuffed animals, and taking her classes on many field trips.

Though she only teaches for three periods a day, she is often at school late in the day discussing in-class assignments, homework, college, and just life in general with the many students that stop by her room after class. Walking into the colorful Room 216 at any time of the day when she is not teaching, one is bound to find at least five students waiting in line to receive help, have a question answered, or just have a chat session with Katrina. This year, in order to help students with their senior portfolios, Katrina felt that it was important to meet with her students individually in order to address more specific issues. To do this, she scheduled one-on-one work sessions with her students over a period of three days. This meant being at school past 3 o'clock on one day, and even pulling an all-nighter for another.

Not only has Katrina been a devoted teacher, but she has been a [illegible]nding figure in Encinal's former California Scholastic Federation, and present National Honor Society club for almost seven years. As the advisor for the club, Katrina helps manage the club's functions, and takes students on various college trips throughout the year. She even spent four days of her Spring Break this year to accompany students to Southern California, where the club toured colleges and visited Disneyland. To honor consistent members of the club, Katrina awards seniors with hand-made sashes that may be worn at graduation.

Katrina is also one of the coordinators for the annual Yosemite trip that sheltered English seniors attend. Feeling that it allows students to truly experience nature through camping and hiking, creating special bonds between students, Katrina spends months each year planning this event.

Teacher, advisor, coordinator, and friend. Katrina is truly dedicated to making a difference in her students' lives at Encinal. "I just love Encinal. I wouldn't work anywhere else," she has stated, and we can all agree that we would never want her to Deadlines! Portraits!

One Time Events!

Camera Coverage! Where are the Story Captions?

Behind the door of room 208 in the 200 hallway there is a beehive of activity. The dedicated Yearbook staff is busy putting together the 2005 edition of the Horizon, the Encinal High School Yearbook. The Yearbook staff put in lots of hard work day in and day out throughout the school year, to make this year's book the best ever. Our cutting edge Yearbook is produced completely digitally.

This has been a great year for yearbook with many firsts. We had some of the most experienced staff members, five of whom spent 3 days at Stanford' s Bay Area Yearbook Seminar to train and better themselves in yearbook leadership. For the first time in seven years, yearbook has gotten itself out of debt. We were able to purchase better equipment such as studio lighting to expand our photographic capabilities. When Encinal was in desperate need, Yearbook stepped up to take photos at dances and print them using our HP Photosmart 8450 digital photo printer. Besides having to struggle to meet deadlines, we made time to take senior and faculty portraits in our own yearbook studio.

Our staff worked really hard to make the best book possible but as you know, every human endeavor will have mistakes. So don't be surprised to find minor errors throughout the book. We would like to thank Jostens and Doug Moss for their endless support. Without them, we wouldn't have a yearbook.

MONEY MAKER$

One morning you wake up and realize you have tons of responsibilities. Your parents won't give you enough money to pay for your phone bills, car insurance, or anything else you need. You don't want a job because it involves hard work, dedication, and it takes up your time, but you need money and will do whatever it takes.

Most of the students here have jobs either to pay bills, help their family, save up for college, or just to earn money to spend. Having a job can be boring and hard but these students are planning ahead for their future careers and gaining experience along the way. So having a job may not be the most fun thing to do, but when the paycheck comes, all the hard work pays off.

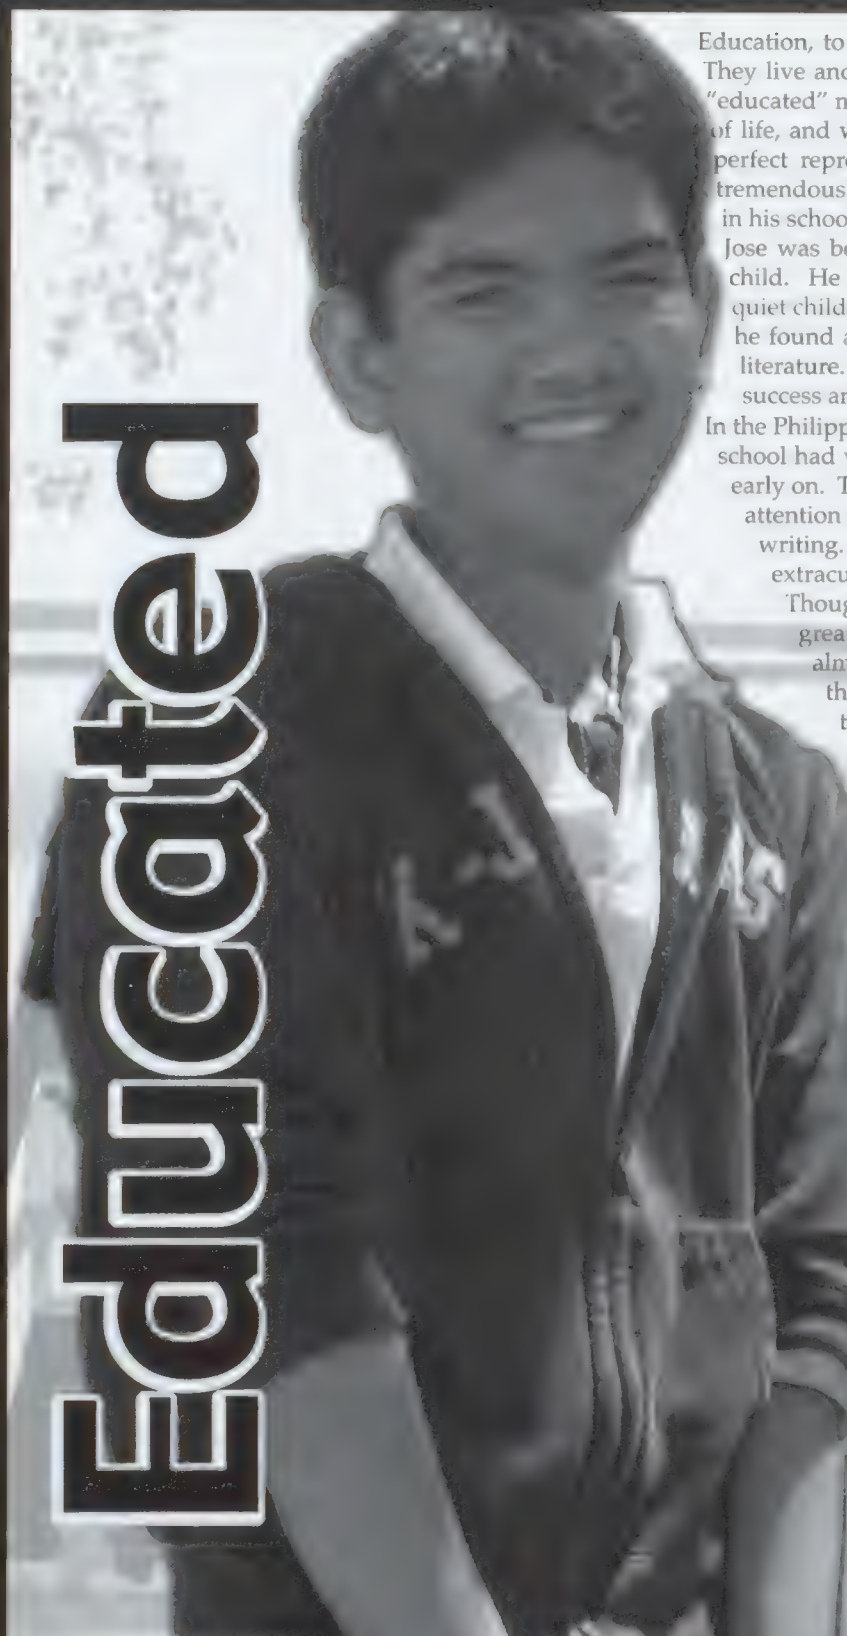
Educated



Education, to most people, is a significant part of one's life and career. They live and breathe and thrive in education and their studies. To be "educated" means to be submerged in educational and academic aspects of life, and will gladly accept help when needed. Jose Custodio is the perfect representation of the word and theme "educated." He is a tremendously devoted and motivated student who thrives to succeed in his school career.

Jose was born in the Philippines and that is where he grew up as a child. He had a normal childhood, though he was one of the more quiet children; he was very quiet and was not very sociable. However, he found an interest in reading and became very fond of books and literature. Perhaps this early interest in books was the basis of his success and motivation in school.

In the Philippines, Jose attended De La Salle High School in Manila. His school had very high standards, so he received a very good education early on. The classes he took and the subjects were challenging; much attention was even given to smaller things, such as spelling and essay writing. In addition to the challenging courses, there were great extracurricular activities as well.

Though Jose was not originally from the United States, he found great success in school when he came here to the United States almost three years ago. His experience in his high school in the Philippines was very beneficial for him, and it helped him to adjust to his new environment and school in the United States.

Like many intellectual and motivated students, Jose did very well in his courses in high school, both in the Philippines and here at Encinal. He has had a few courses in particular in which he has portrayed a very large interest. Jose loves English because he is able "to mix business with pleasure," meaning he is required to read a lot for his ass, yet because of his fondness of books and literature, gets to enjoy and have fun reading. He is fascinated literature and he finds endless connections in books to l life. There are some literary works that also provide anctuary for him and allows him to dream and escape om daily life. He is also interested in Psychology and overnment, because those are challenging cour es, yet he els perfectly comfortable and confident in those classes. e believes that if one does not like what he is doing, he ould not be able to do a very good job on hatever he is ing.

However, Jose could not have succeeded alone. He gives credit of his achievements to his own personal heroes and influences. His biggest and most luminous hero is his other. To him, she is a very strong woman who is able to give her children good ground to stand on. To him, she is amazing. Jose also reserves a lot of respect for most of his teachers, because they are people who have gained enough experience to be great role models. Jose personally thinks that everyone is capable of being a hero, "especially during these hard times where it's hard to find the best or even the good in each of us." To him, a person who gives up a seat on a bus to let someone else sit is a hero; he admires those who have done their part in making this world a better place.

Jose does not believe that there are secrets elited successful people success depends on what works for certain individuals. For him, hard work and diligence results in succes without an mplo Jose has many goals in life, and he will surely go far. His plan future is first, of course, to finish col e (he will atte d Ne York University in the fall), and become a stable, functioning, and endent individual. He would love to be a pediatrician nd with his work ethic and drive, he will most certainly achieve this goal.

Encinal is a very diverse school, and that i what o likes about it. There are a variety of cultures and traditions and individuality. He believes that a person looking for a good education can get it here. Being "educated," to him, means "a person is able to take on responsibilities without complaining or whining about it. An educated person also knows his/her flaws and works on them. He/she takes responsibilities for his/her actions. An educated person should als be someone who can be a great role model for others, without an ounce of narcissism which can consu him." The perfect words about a perfectly educated person from the perfect example of the whole aspect of the word "educated."

"An educated person also knows his/her flaws and works on them. He/she takes responsibilities for his/her actions."

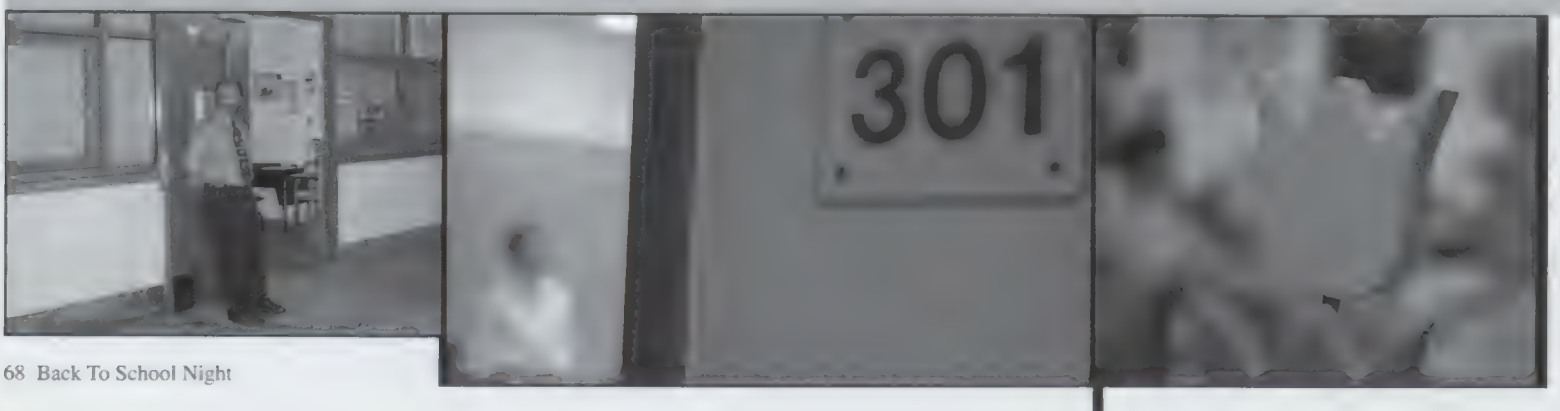
Leadership signs welcomes parents to Encinal High School for Back to School Night.

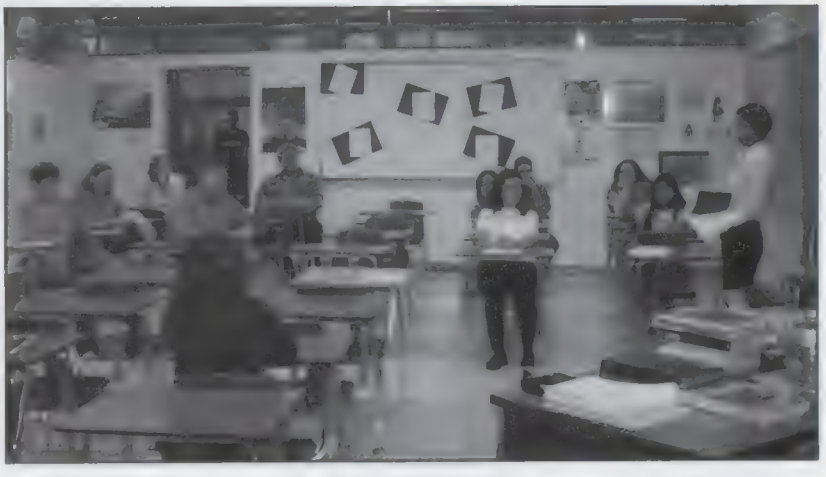


Back to School Night

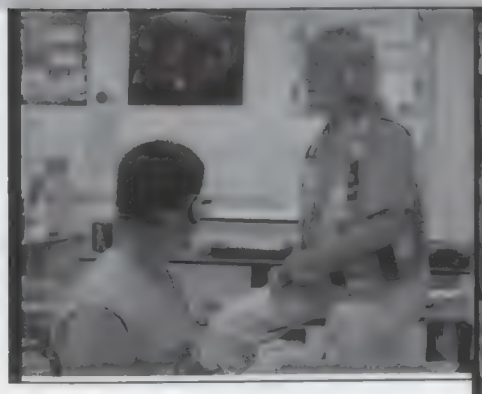
It's Back to School Night! Ding, ding, ding... Don't be late... "Prepare to sit in your seats," this time it's not the students, it's their parents. This is the time of the year when students can show off their hard work and achievements. The parents go through a process of signing in, taking their seats and PAYING ATTENTION! As any other weekday, teachers get their lesson plans out and explain their core curriculum. Teachers feel good to see that so many parents are able to make it on time and observe their students' hard work. Teachers show how much students have accomplished and are going to learn. They try their best not to embarrass the students, nor give them enough credit. Every one believes that this years' Back to School Night was the biggest ever.

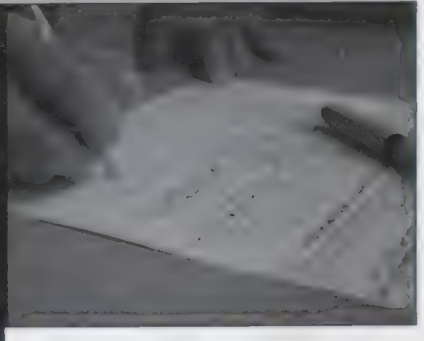
With budget cuts impending, parents are encouraged to attend city council meetings to help save some of the progams at Encinal.

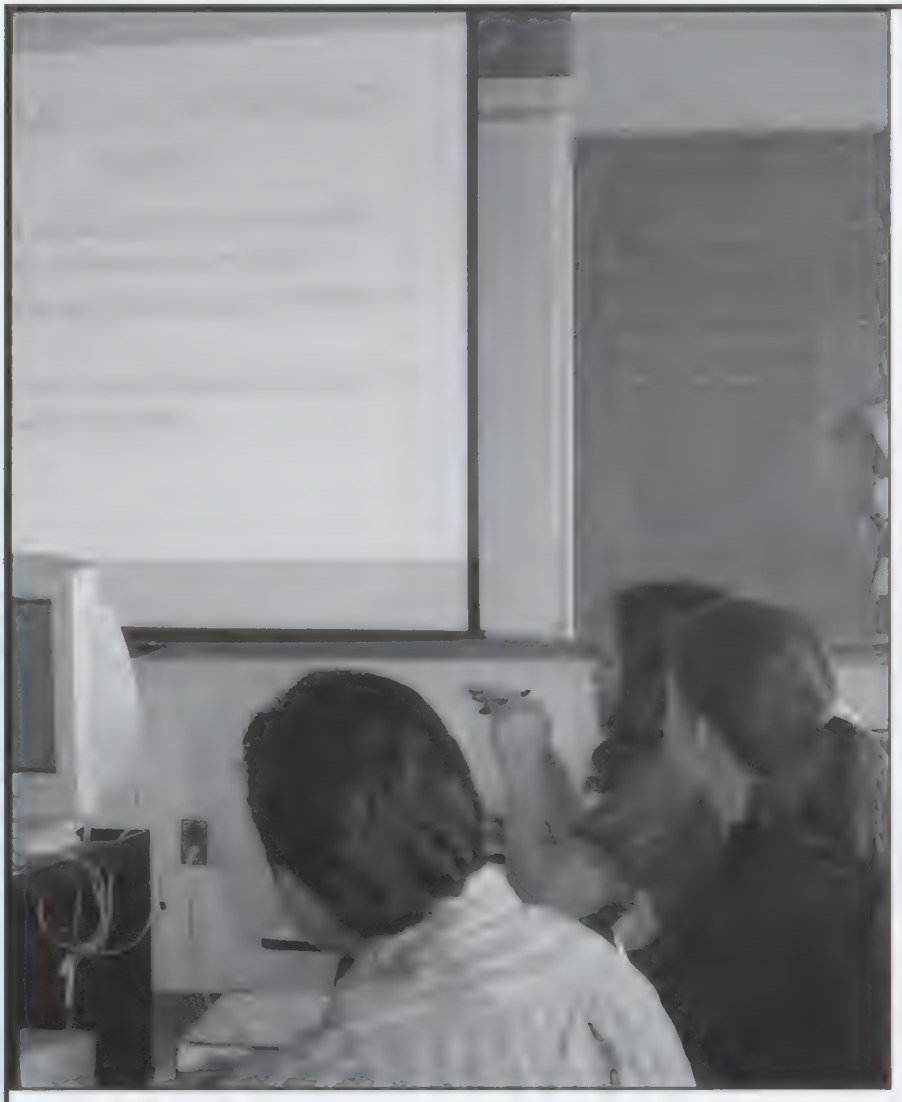
The parents in Mr. Easterday's class are paying close attention and taking notes!



Hola Clase! Ms. Sanchez informs parents about the online lessons.



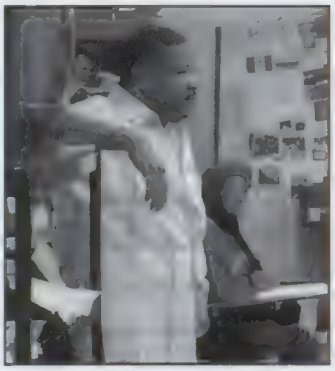




Student's great news! We are all a part of History. We are a part of the school's history and the world's history. With the Iraq War and the tragedy of September 11th, we can expect our children to be learning about it in their U. S. History, Economics and Government. Modern World History focuses on the History of the world and all the different aspects, which made the world what it is today. In U. S. History, we learn about the history of our wonderful country, and all the different decades. Economics and Government are each one semester classes. Economics teaches us about the economy and all of the economists' ideas and theories. Government focuses on our government, leaders and laws. When seniors graduate, they will be informed enough about our economy and government to help pick our countries future leaders.

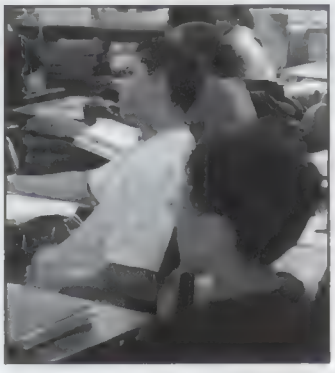
Above: William Balon, Yuriko Silva, Adrienna Williams, and Brian Chandler attentively pay attention as Mr. Franklin starts a new lesson about the Holocaust. William can't hardly wait, so he begins to read in his history textbook.

History



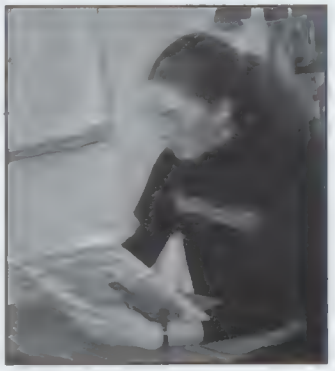
Left: Mr. Franklin takes a break from teaching history and lets Monae Coleman have the class to share her family's history. Afterwards, Mr. Franklin gave some great words of wisdom about how working hard pays off in the future.

Right: Michael Stuart and Stanley Siu watch as students give history presentations, patiently awaiting their turns.

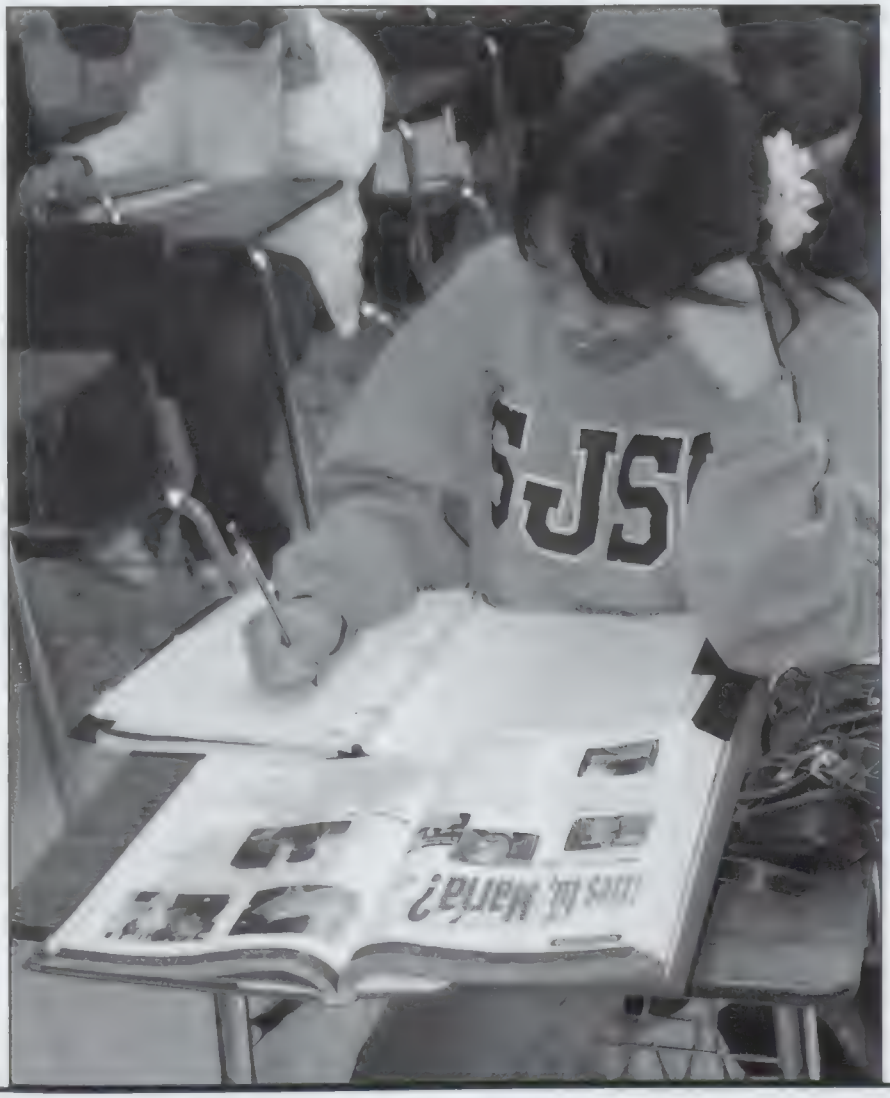


Left: Zaa Gonzolez works very hard to get her Spanish studies done. She begins by carefully reading the Spanish directions, word for word not to misunderstand one single thing. Students in foreign language classes say it's better to take your time and read the directions carefully, then to rush through the assignment.

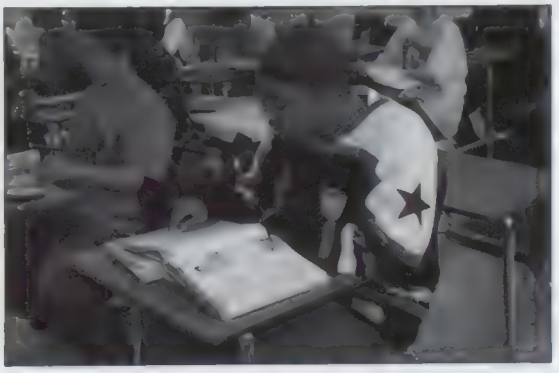
Right: Kathleen Hayes takes a break from her rigorous classes and relaxes with a French book; she enjoys learning French and studies hard in French IV.



Foreign Language



Hola and Bonjour! Hey students of Encinal, "Como estas?" Foreign Language is a class that lets students explore other cultures other than their own. Whether its French or Spanish you will get the most out of those classes. With wonderful teachers like Monsieur Meyers, Senora Sanchez, Senora Fernandez, Senora Rubin and Senora Bloomberg, you're guaranteed to learn new and fun things. This year one of our beloved Spanish teachers Senora Judkins retired. She will be greatly missed by our student body and Encinal staff. Our wonderful school offers French 1-5 and also Spanish levels 1-5, so whether you are beginning with greetings, reading novels, or even moderate in these languages, we have a class for you. "Hasta luego."



Above: Belal Bahta reads the instuctions making sure he understands every word, to not make a mistake on the assignment. With the help of Ms. Rubin he likes to learn Spanish and has lots of fun in the class.

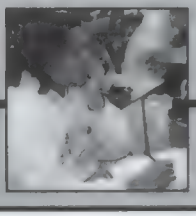
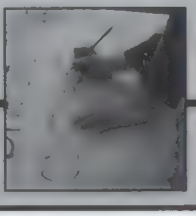
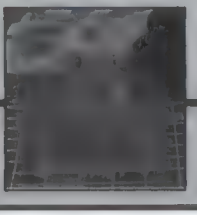
ROP







Students must go through a series of classes to get to a career. Whether you're into math and choose to go into business or like children and want to become a pediatrician. Encinal offers the classes to make your dreams come true, for example, Deca is offered for our future business leaders. Mr. Mariscal makes sure that his Deca students get the best business education possible. Like children? Then Careers with Children is the class for you. This class lets you work with children so you can gain a sense of what children are like. Love your car? Then why not take auto shop and learn how to properly maintain your vehicle. Mr. Potter has the skills and ability to teach you all you need to know. Ever doodle on your papers, napkins or school desk? Then join one of our many art classes that can help prepare you for a job as an animator. No matter what career you are looking into, Encinal can help you get there.

Above: Sabastian Padilla and DaMarion Vance patiently wait while listening to the next assignment in Marketing class.

Wow, interesting and fascinating are words that describe the science classes here at Encinal. During 9th and 10th grade, the science classes are preparatory for the 11th and 12th grade years, where you can choose from a variety of different classes. Marine Biology, Chemistry, Physics, AP Biology, and Physiology are just some of the few. These courses offer Encinal students a chance to go beyond what they see and discover all the little things that make up the world around them. These science classes may seem easy at first, but don't be fooled; these courses are very challenging. If you find yourself confused, don't worry, the science teachers will be more than glad to give you some extra help. Science is one of the subjects that will help you obtain a better understanding of life and all it's qualities.

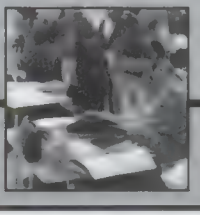
Many say math is the universal language, and everything can be explained in terms of numbers. That is why, here at the home of the Jets, we offer great mathematics course. Including calculus a.k.a. "the all nighters class," trigonometry, statistics, geometry etc. These courses are challenging, but fortunately Encinal has a gifted staff dedicated to making sure each student gets that A or at least has a chance to get an A. The teaching doesn't stop when the last bell rings. Thanks to our teachers, students develop a closer bond with their teachers and know they can rely on them.

Above: Mr. Rannefeld teaches all kinds of math from pre-algebra to trigonomety. He explains and gives examples on the board for the entire class to see.

Math



Left: Fernando Martinez helps Heidi Schmierer with a new chapter in their trigonometry class. Algebra II/Trigonometry is a very difficult course and help from fellow students is always offered.

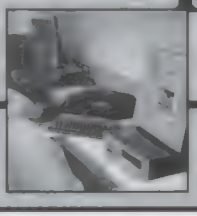
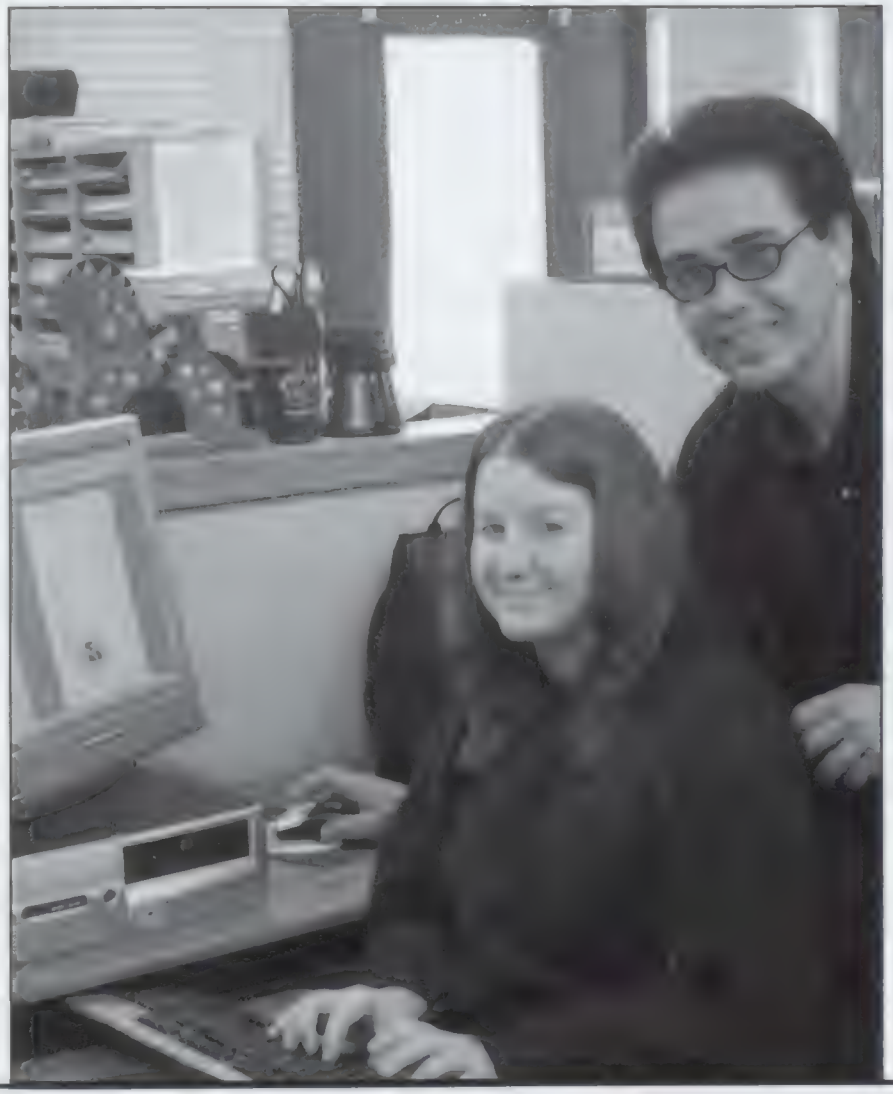
Right: Jeffrey Piano excitedly shows off his very own website. In computers, students make websites that showcase their personal style.

Computers





You've Got Mail!

Are you a computer wiz? If so, then you can take the many computer classes at Encinal, which will help you improve your skills. Whether you like Desktop Publishing or Web design, Mr. Zialcita will help you acquire the skills you need, whether it be typing an essay or putting together your own DVD. With many EHS students working hard on computers, we are guaranteed to have many of our very own jets working for excellent companies in the future.

Above: Taryn Goomishian works on her new website and is very excited about it. She spends many class periods improving and updating her webpage.

Four years of English is a requirement at EHS. We are very thankful to have a gifted faculty here at Encinal; they ensure our growth as readers, writers and thinkers. Encinal offers a variety of different English classes, such as English 1 through 4, Advanced Placement classes and honors English. Freshmen English classes cover poetry and the tragic romantic love story between Romeo and Juliet. Sophomore English classes cover novels such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Night, telling his heroic struggle of survival during the Holocaust. Juniors cover A Raisin in the Sun and The Great Gatsby, which is about a man named Jay Gatsby who is trying to find his love. The Seniors read the epic story of The Odyssey and the revengeful story of Hamlet. Amongst all their other work, seniors also have to complete their senior portfolios. By the time seniors graduate, they will be wonderfully articulated with the help of the English teachers and educated about some of the greatest pieces of literature of all time.

Here at Encinal High School, P.E. is a class that is required to graduate, but you can't tell it by all the fun the students have. It's also a class where students can take a break from the stuffy classrooms and get a bit of fresh air. In P.E., students cover a variety of sports such as softball, football, basketball, soccer, volleyball, and so many more. This year there were a lot of changes made to the gym, new scoreboards and new basketball courts. They also put in new lights on the football field, so we can play at night. This year the P.E. teachers (Mr. Saunders, Mr. Palley, and Mrs. Haines a.k.a. Ms. Peterson) made P.E. even funner than last year by integrating aerobics and taebo into their classes. At the end of the year, students leave this class healthier and more fit than the beginning of the year.

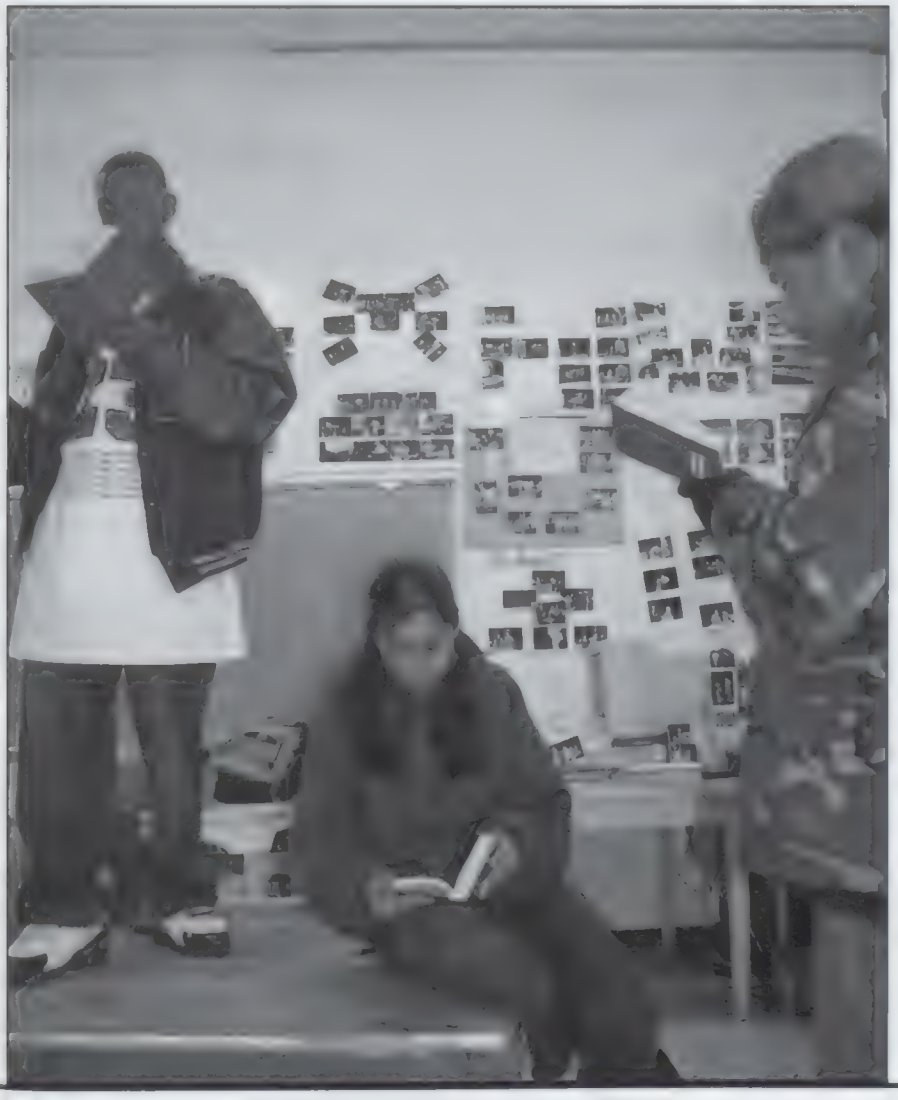
Drama



"The time is out of joint. O cursed spite that ever I was born to set it right!" Shakespeare-Hamlet.

Drama class is one of the many ways to express yourself on Encinal's stage. Whether you have read Romeo and Juliet or the wonderfully sad story of Hamlet, you will have the best time in this class. Whether you're into being the evil villain or the good guy, Mr. Moorehead will help you get into character and give it your best performance. Have a dream of being a famous actor or actress? Well, you get to practice your acting skills with peers in this class. Students love this class due to the fact that it is all about acting and you can't get in trouble for it. So, in the near future Encinal hopes to see it's jets soaring, whether it's on the stage, in any career they choose, even behind the curtain.

Songfest

when AP students show off their AP stuff...

It's gotten bigger and better. Not only has Mr. Rodriguez's AP classes gotten bigger and better, so has the stage. Instead of the cafeteria where songfest has traditionally taken place, this year's songfest took place in the Encinal gymnasium. Students started preparing in mid-November for songfest, some excited, some nervous, some both. On the night of Wednesday, December 15, one hundred and five students from the AP United States and AP European classes performed their astonishing historical songs and dances on stage. If you are one of those who stereotyped AP student as nerds who spend endless hours on homework and studying for tests, songfest has proven you wrong. AP students are not only talented academically; they can also sing, dance, and play in a band. This year, there were a total of eleven acts by the juniors and eight by the sophomores followed by a performance by Mr. Rodriguez and his band, Porno Pandas. We also had some very amazing hosts this year, Lela Sims, Lina Tieu, Nate Rockwell, Philip Garcia, and Sarah Garvey, who spent countless hours putting this special event together. After the performances, everybody enjoyed a great feast of cultural dishes that the performers brought.

Many people are artistic, many people are sophisticated, but we were searching for that unique individual at Encinal High School that personifies our newly created word, Artisticated. Artisticated means that not only do you have to have marvelous artistic talents but to go along with that, you have to have sophistication.

Just around the corner, a girl dressed in a pair of blue jeans, a purple shirt, and black boots sits on the blue benches of Encinal High School. Silver earrings with lilac jewels dangle from her ears and her hair is tied in a ponytail with a blue scrunchie. Beside her lies a drawing book topped with a pencil. It is none other than Ashlee Williams, waiting to tell her story on.

At the early age of six, Ashlee had taken up art as a hobby. This continued until six years later, when she finally developed a serious interest in art. The television series Sailor Moon was to thank for that. She loved the characters so much that she wanted to use her own imagination to create some characters of her own. As time progressed, a future career in the art field became her dream and it remains to be till this day. To help her further her skills, she took classes at the Academy of Art, courses at the School of Visual Arts in New York, and she has done figure drawing at the Frank Bette Center, which is located just a few blocks away from Encinal.

To help her with her drawings, Ashlee draws inspiration from music, literature, anime, manga, and cloud formations. Her personal feelings and state of mind contribute to her artwork as well. She tends to do her best work when she is exhausted and though she is hardly ever angry, she does draw random contorted things until she cools off. Plus, she puts them to use in her own personal way. Growing up, she was raised to be a bookworm, making her love writing. So, most of what she draws ends up giving her ideas for stories. Unfortunately, she has so many ideas in her head that she can never seem to finish any of the stories; her train of thought derails frequently.

Many people draw what they are told to but Ashlee draws what she really likes. She illustrates numerous things ranging from life drawing to elves to cats and many more. Usually, she multitasks during her hour long classes, sketching people while managing to pay attention to the teacher. As for judgment, it doesn't really bother her. She is always willing to listen to anyone who has to offer constructive criticism. In her viewpoint, her work isn't perfect and any ways to improve would be a good thing. And as for the people who have rude comments about her work, she just ignores it. She does what she wants to feel happy and she doesn't say that people have to look at her work.

Since her skills are still developing, Ashlee claims that "my art is mediocre by professional standards, and even by hobbyist standards." But with what she has, she has put them to good use around her school life. During her Junior year at Encinal High School, she helped out with their homecoming wall, relating to the theme Sesame Street. She had the task of designing and decorating masks which would be used for the various characters. It took her two weeks, but in the end, her hard work payed off because she helped her class win first place in the wall decorating category during Homecoming. Not to mention, she was declared the winner of the Bank of America Unique award for the Fine Arts category.

When it comes to elegance, Ashlee's work is not that. She takes her drawings seriously and tries to perfect them as much as she can. As for if they achieve her aim to be stylish, she says, "That's up to the viewer. Everyone has their own personal taste and I'm sure there's someone out there who sees my stuff as classy." But for her personal sake, she's aiming to make her work more fluid and stylized. She's practicing and is willing for more critiques in order to reach the level she wants to be at. Yet, she says that no matter what level she's at, she'll still be unhappy with it since it's done because it's a vicious cycle that she must follow.

As for the future dream career in the arts field, Ashlee will be embarking on that road soon. She will be going to Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia this fall to major in animation. Becoming an animator, an illustrator or a concept artist would be her preferable jobs but in reality, she would be happy doing anything in the arts field that relates to TV or film. She hopes that one day, she'll have the opportunity to work for a company like Dreamworks, Disney or Pixar.

"a scene from The Sound of Music"

Encinal Theatre & Broadway

To be part of a play or a musical production is to be part of something big. Although it involves a lot of hard work, the people who are a part of it finds that it is quite rewarding in the end, when they hear the audience applauding wildly and enthusiastically, in recognition of their hard work and wonderful performance. Most people find it nerve-racking to be on stage, but few live and thrive in the spotlight. However, before the big performances, an actor or actress must audition for the part first. Then the director decides who will play each part. And from there, the magic begins. They go to the rehearsals, which in most cases, are most days of the week, after school, for a few hours. It is very tedious work; one must memorize his/her lines precisely. Rehearsals usually last for a couple of months, and then, there are the dress rehearsals. For the musicals, it is a bit different; in addition to the lines, the actors and actresses must memorize the songs that they must sing. Finally, there is the big performance. The play or musical is performed not just once, but a few times, and everyone has the chance to witness the splendid acting, singing, and/or choreography. The choices this year for plays were very interesting and had great plots.

What would you get if you had a grandmother who put a curse on her family, a father who was murdered by your uncle who then married your mother, and a nun as your governess? You would have two great plays and one enchanting musical! The first theatre production of the year was Daughters of the Mock by Judi Ann Mason, and this was performed in the fall. Although it had an unusually small cast of only five, the performance was wonderful. The play was about a woman named Maumau, who put a curse on her family, "the mock." Because of an abusive husband, she vowed that her family would be a family of only women. The mock cursed the women in the family, to murder their husbands and any boy children. However, Maumau's granddaughter, Maneda, wants to end the curse, in order to save her younger sister, Amanita, who was recently engaged. The second production of the year was Hamlet by William Shakespeare. This was rehearsed and performed in winter. Basically, the plot of this play was this: The King of Denmark is killed by an apparent snakebite, and his brother, Claudius assumes the throne and marries the widowed Queen, Gertrude. The Prince of Denmark, the former king's son, is disturbed by his mother's hasty marriage, and suspects that his father was murdered by Claudius. His suspicions turn out to be true, and he goes on a wild rampage, in seeking revenge for his father's murder. And finally, the third and final production of the year was The Sound of Music, which was based on a true story (the book was written by Howard Lindsay and Richard Crouse); the von Trapp family fled their native Austria to escape the pressure of the Nazis, and became a singing group. The story starts off with Maria Rainier, a postulant of the Nonberg Abbey (meaning she is on the path to becoming a nun). In order for her to figure out if she is cut out to be a nun, Mother Abbess sends her to the home of Georg von Trapp, to be the governess of his seven children. From there, they begin a wonderful and musical journey that will change their lives in more ways than one.

Student Artwork

"A picture is worth a thousand words." From ancient times up to about the 17th century, pictures were used to send messages. Art may be in the form of paintings, sculptures, architecture, photographs, decorative arts, crafts, poems, dances and other visual works. Here at Encinal, many students use art such as drawings, poems and graffiti to express their emotions or ideas. Many are inspired to do art by family, friends, love, religion, or just life itself. One of our fellow artistic students Katarina Yang, has once said, "art... it doesn't always work from my head to paper, but it's sometimes relaxing to just doodle and let my mind wander." Another student, Cyrus Khajvandi, is inspired by Machiavelli to work on art during his leisure time. The essence of Encinal's creativity is an important element of our intellectual freedom. Through these four pages, let us find a profound admiration in Encinal's creative minds.

At first glance when I saw you, you were like a piece of heaven; a beautiful angel sitting alone, pondering, looking radiant with your glimmering, light colored face that had a mysterious, but calm look.

You were shy but you had a cute, troubled look on your face. You seemed like you were self-conscious and had a sense of intelligence within. You looked illustrious with your peerless and simple beauty, which was endless, but yet fading at the same time.

You had me asking myself "How can something so sweet and beautiful be alone and saddened?"

You blew my mind away...

And you took my heart...

Who can you be?...

I am open

To pain, to love, to happiness, to every hurt in the world that could rain.
I am open but, do i want to be?

Has my heart really spoken. I'm not really sure.
It could be broken but yet I am still open, everything might not go my way, but the word's on my mind I will say.

People may not see things the way I see them,
and they might not like me but, yet I am still open,

I could get hit by a cool breeze and things in my life could freeze,
I'd be a little sad maybe even a little mad but yet I am still open,
open to anything that shall come down my path,
to anything that shall bestow open me its rath,

People love me, people hate me but, yet I am still open, to walk right up to a reddy to feast lion and look him in his eyes and keep walking, my heart may have been broken but yet it has spoken and it said after all of that I am still open.

Leader: If the other people have no answers to questions, the leader should always have the final say. The one in charge will mostly have say in many things.
Questions about where posters should go or when posters should go up should be addressed to the one in charge of publicizing the blood drive.
Questions about sing ups, for example what time a certain person will donate blood, should be addressed to the person in charge of the sign up sheets.
Basic questions about requirements for donating blood can usually be answer by anyone, but most likely the leader will know.

Doodling...

It's been around longer than you think... maybe

Extensive archeological evidence suggests that doodling (random drawings while not paying attention) has been around much longer than previously thought. It seems it is not just a favorite activity of American High School students, but has been an issue since the Chief called the first meeting in the cave. Recent discoveries in the South of France seems to indicate that not every hunter was paying attention as the Chief outlined the plan for the big wooly mammoth hunt. Excavating around the town of Cleaceau have unearthed many random doodlings in the sand, especially around the last row of logs that served as seats for the hunters. Dr. Wen Duzclasend has been studying this phenomena for years. She said that doodlings have been found in many archeological digs throughout the Globe. She believes doodling to be an essential human activity. So we thought we'd give you a samle of some Encinal doodling...

Inspirated

Walking through the halls of Encinal's diverse campus, one comes to realize that the students and their inspirated (ok, so we here at yearbook took the liberty of making up this word) stories are what make the campus buzz with life. What drives the students? What's their story?

Constantly seen smiling around campus in her blue Encinal Jets sweater, Magui Santos, a junior at EHS, is one such inspirated person. Upon birth in Puerto Rico, Magui was diagnosed with a severe form of the genetic skin disorder Ichthyosis. With this skin disorder, the normal skin cycle is disrupted, and instead of constantly shedding, the skin cells often bunch together into larger flakes. This condition can interfere with the skin's critical roles in protecting against everyday infection, preventing dehydration, and regulating body temperature through the normal sweat glands. "When I was born the doctors in Puerto Rico said that I wouldn't live that long at all." It's clear that today, Magui, at 18 years old, still has a drive to succeed. Despite her condition, you can always count on her to be at school with a cheerful smile, and willing to share her story. During first semester, she educated all of the Current Life Issues students about her condition through a class presentation. Not only does she participate in informing the school about her condition, but she also participates in annual summer camps that unite other people with similar skin disorders. You may have even seen Magui and her sister Isabella, a sophomore, on the television show Maury.

Magui's story definitely is inspiring. She gives new meaning to the phrase "live life to the fullest," as she has countless goals and hobbies in life. She still manages to keep her grades at a B average, earning a spot on the honor roll, and even finds the time to participate in another avid love: sports. "My sister and I frequently participate in Special Olympics, where we compete against teams from all over the Bay Area, where we participate in sports like track and field, volleyball, softball, swimming, basketball and tennis." Out of all these sports, Magui's favorite is basketball, in which her team placed 5th place among the Special Olympic teams all over the Bay Area.

a passing student says on her way to the office where Magui works as an office aid. "I know practically everyone on campus," Magui proudly states.

However, Magui isn't blind to her surroundings. Growing up in elementary school, kids and adults treated her differently, not knowing what Magui and her sister went through. However, today, Magui simply shrugs such events off. Remembering a time when a grown adult refused to shake her hand, she says, "It probably bugs my para and mother more than me."

Magui is the epitome of an inspirated character on campus. From playing sports with her friends, singing in the talent show, and being more than willing to share her story.

Magui's drive for success, along with Encinal's wide acceptance of diversity is truly one of the things that make our campus a special place.

"When I was born the doctor in Puerto Rico said that I wouldn't live that long at all."

Academic "E"

High Performers get the Recognition they Deserve

You see them in the hallways with their jackets sporting Encinal "E"s, some with stars on them. You think "they sure don't look like an athlete, how come they get to wear an "E" on their jacket...what did they do to earn that honor?" Ask them and they will tell you.

It's official! The Academic "E" program is here to stay at Encinal. Started last year by hardworking senior Emily Allegrotti, this program recognizes and rewards students who are academically doing well in school. Those who receive it have maintained an A in a subject for four consecutive semesters or in the case of AP and Honor courses, B's are acceptable. Hopefully, this program will push students to earn better grades and have the honor of placing an Academic "E" on their letterman jackets. Now, students other than those who perform athletically well will be noticed by their fellow peers and teachers. Good luck to all the future Academic E recipients.

Band and Flag

"It's my first year and our other captains left us and I feel that I had to step up even though I didn't know what I was doing."
- Vanessa King (Flag Team Captain)

"To be great in life you have to work hard. To get to where I am right now, I have worked extra hard. I have committed myself to band, my education and everything I have accomplished. To be extraordinary you have to give all of yourself and work harder than the next person."
- Shante Jenkins (Drum Major)

Encinal, are you ready??? It's time for you to take the floor of competition. Yes! Coming down the street is our very own Encinal Band, demonstrating their musical talents in front of the entire town and several other high schools from the Bay Area. To start the new year off, our gifted Drum Major, Shante Jenkins, received an invitation to the New Years holiday parade on January 1, 2005 in London, England. She didn't come home empty handed; she brought with her a first place trophy for overall competition. The Jazz Band and Flag Team also earned the spotlight because they did extremely well, placing themselves in the Top 5 in competitions. Everyday, the band practices after school and it paid off because they placed first in competitions. The success the band has enjoyed this year has been like no other. The Encinal Marching Jets are renowned and a great source of pride for the entire community.

PULL!!

Before the freshmen arrive at Camp Parks, three JROTC cadets try to complete a task themselves to kill time.

READY, SET, GO!

Two freshmen balance on a swinging pole, trying hard not to lose their concentration and drop the board of wood, or else they will have to start the whole task over.

CAMP PARKS

WORK IT!!

On October 7th and 8th, another great experience for the freshmen were made possible by Encinal's JROTC. Camp Parks was a great bonding experience for the freshmen. Students received a day off from their studies to go on a field trip filled with challenges, new friendships, and a lot of fun! The first day had a rocky start. One of the buses broke down on the way, and the freshmen, the teachers, and two members of our yearbook staff had to wait patiently for another one. Despite this incident, the freshmen enjoyed their time at Camp Parks. Each JROTC cadet, dressed in a BDU, were assigned a task to supervise. There was a penalty for not completing their tasks in the allotted time. The JROTC cadet could choose a type of punishment for these students which varied from holding hands while singing, running from one point of the field to the next, and rolling around on the dry, grass-covered ground. However, if they completed their task, they were able to punish their JROTC instructor. This rarely happened, because not many of the tasks were completed. When it did happen, the freshmen were very excited and hard on their punishments. Some tasks were difficult , and some were easier , but nonetheless, all of the tasks were challenging and tested physical and mental strength.

ELECTRIFYING

As a team, Adrian, Jamel, and Anthony work together to carry the heavy ammunition over the "electric" wire fence.

RING AROUND THE ROSIE

One of the groups of freshmen sing and dance around C/CPT Ryan Guillen as a punishment for not completing their task.

NO PAIN, NO GAIN

Reggie and his fellow group member work hard to push the barrel to the top.

HOORAY FOR TEAMWORK

IS IT TIGHT ENOUGH?

GOT BOARD?

Maricel Quirindango helps her teammates to connect two long boards with a rope to help them cross to the other side.

SAY CHEESE

Michael Price struggles to pass the board to his teammate in order for the rest of his teammates to cross over to the other side.

To complete their task, AJ Cabuang works together with one of his teammates to place the board on the small concrete pillar. They struggled to crawl through the tubes, and they ignored the dangers of falling.

"Good morning Encinal! These are the daily announcements from EHS leadership." Leadership has many responsibilities such as running extra curricular activities at Encinal. Dedicated leadership students spend their time, helping before and after school, and even on weekends. Carefully chosen leadership students choreograph assemblies, making sure the chairs and lights are set up properly and all students participate. Ever wondered who thinks up all those fun dress-up days or awesome games during homecoming week? Yes! That's made possible by the leadership class. That's not all; in order to improve our environment, leadership runs a recycling program and canned food drives for the entire school. Before lunch time, leadership reminds all students of the activities on that day. On Saturdays, leadership students help set up SAT's and exams for the adult school. This year Leadership took on the new and challenging task, the "Beautification of Encinal." This was achieved by putting in trophy cases in the hallways, fixing old benches and repainting the bleachers for a new shiny look! Leadership leads EHS by setting the example of hard work, dedication and enthusiasm.

Cynthia Rosenthal - Cheerleading Coach

Q: What do you think are the Cheerleader's motivations?
A: They want to do well. Our goal is to improve on the mistakes we made last year. They continue to work hard.
Q: What did you look for in the future... potential cheerleaders?
A: Size does not make a difference. All you need is the willingness to cheer. Practicing is the key, if you want to learn it, you will learn it. Endurance is important. You must be able to attend practices after school, weekends and during the summer.
Q: Do you plan on continuing as the Cheerleading coach?
A: Actually I do. The girls are encouraging me to improve myself. I want the girls to make an effort to take it to competition. I want them to have the confidence so they can see how great they actually are.

"We have good leadership. If there's something we can't do, we try and we focus on ways to make it happen, with the hard work from each individual we can accomplish anything."
- Cynthia Rosenthal (Coach)

Stesha Donaldson - Captain

Q: How long have you been an EHS Cheerleader?
A: I've been an EHS Cheerleader ever since my Sophomore year.
Q: As Captain, do you have a good relationship with the girls?
A: Yes, we are like a family, especially the 2nd and 3rd year girls.
Q: Do you plan on cheering in college?
A: Yes... I also want to tryout for the Raiderettes!
Q: Do you have any aspiring words to say to Future EHS Cheerleaders?
A: Please don't let the drama get you off track! Keep adding to what we have worked so hard to accomplish. Don't miss me too much, because I'll see you next year.

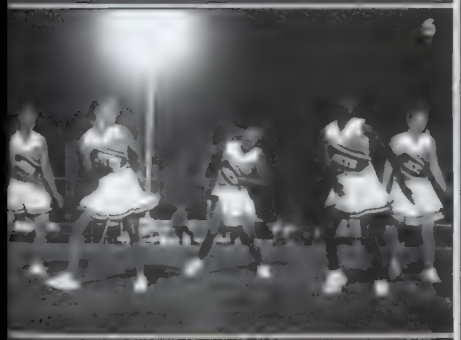
Cheerleading



Our 2004-2005 Cheerleading squads began the year with a lot of spirit. For every game, whether it was on the field or in the gym, strong effort was displayed by each member. The long and strenuous tryouts that took place over the summer were one of the milestones the cheerleaders had to overcome to make the squad. After school, in the hallways, you could easily hear the chants and cheers coming from a group of dedicated girls. The captain this year, Stesha Donaldson, made sure that their cheers were executed well, with plenty of Jet Pride and spirit. The Cheerleaders were often an attraction of their own at any event they participated in. Jessica Canalin, the captain of the Junior Varsity team, used her leadership skills to inspire some of the young girls. At EHS, cheerleading is now a sport, taken as seriously as the other known sports: basketball, football, etc. The determination of the girls make their choreography stand out meant harder practices than ever before. For the cheerleaders it was all about the fans and they worked really hard to provide inspirational and appropriate entertainment. The Encinal cheerleaders have provided games with fun, excitement and most of all, Jet Pride!

6. On the field during halftime, the JV squad sums up their performance.
7. The cheerleaders parade around after the game in hopes that their spirit will hearten the crowd after the loss.
8. A group of cheerleaders pose for the camera before performing at the Pinole game.

Motivated

"This one time, at band camp..."

It takes a lot to be motivated. In order to be motivated, one must be able to display spirit and impose that motivation upon others. Constantly seen tossing her baton on campus, Shante Jenkins, a senior, is the perfect example of a motivated student here at EHS. As the EHS Marching Jets drum major, Shante is responsible for the band during marching season, and can almost always be found not too far from our very own band room.

Part of being motivated is the ability to impose leadership upon others, and on any given day in band, chances are you'll see Shante in charge of some aspect of band. From the beginning of the year, Shante is responsible for drilling band members on marching skills in band camp.

Throughout the year, her duties range from directing the band itself through their march, teaching other potential drum majors their stuff, choreographing and being in the winterguard show, helping out the music boosters, to playing in the school drumline. "I'm basically the right-hand woman to Mr. Phelps when it comes to the band. When there's a sub, directions usually point to me to take charge."

"I've dreamed of this moment ever since I was a freshman. I knew that I wanted to be a part of the band, since I loved band in middle school. However, when I reached EHS, I knew I wanted to strive to be different." For as long as she can remember, music has always been a part of Shante's life. "Ever since my days at Wood Middle School, I've always loved the band atmosphere. It's like my second family."

Being in band also gave me a goal to aim for. I've worked extremely hard to get to where I am today." So much so, that these days she has five instruments under her belt. "I play the bass clarinet, clarinet, tuba, triple toms, and the bass drum." Shante states excitedly. Over the years, Shante has displayed major potential to continue the drum major legend at Encinal. In order to gain her position, she has attended three summers of drum major camp, fully sponsored, where she learned how to spin and toss her baton like a pro.

Shante has displayed so much motivation and potential that she spent her winter break in London, representing USA as a top drum major. "I was chosen out of 78 drum majors for the All Star Parade, where 1,400 kids from all over the USA—cheerleaders, etc. were chosen to march."

Even throughout all this, Shante has managed to keep her grades up—within the top 10% of the class of 2005. She's even been awarded a music scholarship for further education in music. For college, she plans to attend Florida A&M University to major in music. Shante Jenkins is definitely driven to succeed—the quintessence example of a motivated person.

"When I reached EHS, I knew I wanted to strive to be different"

Shante Jenkins

"We stuck together, and played hard. We never gave up. It ain't over yet... see me on the field."
- DaMarion Vance (Captain)

"We started off good and fell hard. I'm 'bout to bounce back. Look out for ya boy on t.v. next year."
- Marc Cheatham

Varsity Football

Never lacking in intensity

During the 2004 Encinal football season, our Varsity team didn't do as well as many had hoped. But for the seniors, it was an honorable pleasure to have endured yet another united season. Although it may be many of the players' last time stepping onto a football field as an Encinal Jet, what many have walked away with this season is the knowledge of what unity, perserverance, dedication and commitment is. Many lessons were taught on and off the field! For the returning players, all the lessons that were learned this year will hopefully bear fruit in the next year. Good luck to all players!

Varsity Badminton

A new diversity... same old winning ways

New rules, new players, and new uniforms make up this year's Badminton team. The 2005 edition of Varsity Badminton has some very talented players who despite the long hours of school and homework; players return to school at 6:30 am every morning to practice. Their enthusiasm and energy are incredible. Coaching for his second year, 1SG Allen has gained much experience, making the team even better. With many new players of different ethnicities, the team has become more diverse, symbolizing the diversity of our school. Of course, along with the incoming new players are new ideas and new rules. Thus, a new set of uniforms and strict regulations were established under the leadership of the veteran players. The team continues to grow, stronger as the players work together and devote themselves to doing whatever it takes to win.

Varsity Golf

Swinging away...

Golf is one of the many spring sports offered at Encinal. The golf players are very dedicated to their team. The members prove how dedicated they are by traveling the distance from campus to the Chuck Corica Golf Course in Bay Farm. These club swinging students have the heart and the talent to bring glory to Encinal. Golf is an excellent choice for students who like an easy going and stress relieving sport. When it comes to playing golf, there is no team better than the Jets, swinging their way to victory. With the guidance of Coach Jack Schram and the student's individual dedication to the team, we expect the Golf Team to have a very successful year.

"On your mark..." This is it, this is what they've been waiting for... "Get Set!!" To see if all the hard work from everyday practices was worth it.."GO!!!" Encinal's track team goes the distance once more with their outstanding dedication to the sport of Track and Field. It has been a great season for Encinal's track team. Having lots of talent and endurance there isn't anyone who can stop them. All the team members had the heart of a champion. Encinal's Track Team has never backed down from any kind of challenge that was thrown at them, keeping their head's high, they worked very hard. Even though the team consisted of both boys and girls, that didn't bother them, it was a fun experience. Junior, Stacey Yu said, "Waterpolo is really fun and I like it a lot. I get to be mean and aggressive to the guys from other schools and make them mad by putting them in pain." Although there were few wins this year, these Waterpolo Jets tried their very best and had a great time playing together.

Varsity Cross Country

Encinal's Cross Country team is a team of motivated and dedicated runners. It's a sport for people who love to run and push themselves to the limit. Every Tuesday and Thursday morning, Cross Country practices are held at 6 AM. At practice, these Jets thrive to prepare to get a better time for their next meet. This year, the Cross Country coach is none other than William Allen, the Senior Army Instructor of the JROTC progam at Encinal. Not only does he give advice to his runners, but also motivates and cheers them on to push themselves into taking that extra step. It was a great year for our team who gave it their all and succeeded in making it to the finish line.

"Going into the season I honestly did not know what to expect. I mean it's our 3rd coach in three years so I had mixed feelings Now as I look back I had fun, even though we were on a losing streak. As a team we had our differences off the court, but on the court we had each others back. Overall I think we as a team have learned and benefitted from Coach Gorham and Coach Hill but at the same time they have learned from being around us." - Dexter English #15

"I honestly felt that I worked my rear end off and didn't really get anything in return. McKinleyville was a blast and all the away games too. I'd like to thank Coach Gorham and Coach Hill for everything they had taught me. I would also like to thank Dexter English and Dexter Moore for seven years of unforgettable basketball memories. I'M OUT!!! #11" - Pat Larsen #11

Varsity Men's Basketball

You can't win them all

This year's Varsity Basketball team has definitely improved. With a new coach, an excellent leader and a provider, the team learned how to accommodate with each other on and off the court. Coach Gorham has a friendship with these fellas and provides positive and inspirational leadership. They practiced in the morning, at lunch, and after school. The Varsity players showed so much determination, it was incredible. Although their season didn't turn out the way it was expected to, they still played hard all around. With great leaders like captains Dexter Moore, Dexter English, Mario Hackett, and Javarius James, they definitely had good plays and great strategies. Everybody contributed to the team in their own way and was loyal through the entire season. There were a few wins and many losses, but these young men never gave up on each other nor on their coach; they had faith the whole time. With attitudes like that they're guaranteed a successful season next year. To all of our seniors, thanks for staying the course. To the returning players, good luck next year.

Varsity Women's Basketball

Keep your hands and feet inside the cart!

The Women's Varsity basketball team definitely went on an emotional roller coaster. Pre-season was all theirs; they won several games back to back. Not to mention they won the championship game against Hercules on Dec. 22nd in the 3 day Navato Tournament. It has been a bumpy ride for these seniors having a new coach each year. Coach Burke is a good coach who had a better game plan than the coaches from previous years. Knowing how to interact with each other on and off the court definitely made these girls winners. They bonded with each other during every game and they strived for success. The lady jets practiced two hours a day, six days a week. They practiced hard like it was a game and played every game like it was the championship. With great role models like Shafon Rollins, averaging 30 points a game, Dominique Dozier and Marquita Price, adding several assists, and Ashley Davidson, the most motivated player of them all, the team played well this season. Better luck next season Jets!!!

"The season wasn't what I expected for my senior year, but it was a fun experience. Although we had a losing season, I stepped my game up and as a team we played together. There wasn't much chemistry on the team so it was hard. Our main focus was to enjoy our last year, have fun, and win."- Marquita Price #24

"I have been on Varsity since my freshman year, but last year I quit the team because of the differences with the coach. But with the support of my friends, I went out for the team this year. I am really glad that I did because we had fun winning and losing. It was a great year and for the returning players just think of me before the games. Remember to say your prayers, don't stress and have fun!!! I'm going to miss all of you! #45"

Andrew Dominguez serves the ball, hoping for an ace.

Ace! Ace is the term used in volleyball when the server scores a point. The Men's Volleyball team worked really hard this season. During the off-season the young men were committed to their conditioning. The conditioning consisted of: setting, spiking, and bumping and this is a few of their best assets. The pre-season was full of wins and losses. However, it prepared the team for the long season ahead. On the gym floor they were excited and focused at the task at hand: work hard, play hard and win! The team has many returning varsity players, Ryan Vickroy who has participated for two years among others. Coach Bautista leads his team with encouragement and support. Bautista has been Encinal's volleyball coach for years, giving the team plenty of assurance that he knows how to win! The season was full of great moments.

Varsity Women's Volleyball

Bump, Set, Strive for Success; that's exactly what these Lady Jets did for this 2004 season. With a record of 12-2, these Lady Jets had an outstanding season. With freshmen, #13 Cahery Gutierrez, a real active player, sophomore, #1 Phoebe Bautista, known for setting, seniors, #20 Erin Astrup and #19 Amecia Young, both known for spiking, this team is truly well-rounded. With all these talented players contributing in many different areas, these Lady Jets made a big impact on the team this year. With their success, they have lead the Jets to victory and for that very reason, they made it to the NCS Playoffs. The Jets were exhausted after an 8 hour drive to Cresent City to play Del Norte; they lost 3 sets to 1.

"I have been on the varsity volleyball team for the last 3 years. Playing 3 varsity sports year round. I could actually say that volleyball has been the most successful team I have played on at Encinal High. Having a coach that draws a line between work and play by discipline lead us 3 years in the NCS. Being co-captain with Erin set us in a place of leadership and responsibility. I am very proud of how we did this season with our excellent record of 12-2."
-Bernadette Richard #2's co-captain.

"I feel overwhelmed by the fact that I got the opportunity to be a starter on varsity. I think our season was great although we lost to Berkeley, we had great games. I do feel I accomplished my goal of getting at least 10 kitts in all of our games. This season was definately a success and I am proud of our team."

Varsity Men's Tennis

It's all about finesse

Great works are performed not by strength but by perseverance. Serving up a great season, the men's varsity did very well with perfect serves and excellent returns. They managed to have satisfying accomplishments along with a few disappointments. Practicing everyday, working hard improving their skills, and basically having fun. The varsity team learned more about what it means to be apart of a successful team that emphases hard work, integrity, and sportsmanship. The team hopes to improve on their skills and face every rival they come across. With their teamwork they were able to withstand their opponents. This years' tennis team is the best we had so far at Encinal. The players made a lot of memories that will be cherished by them for years. We hope next years team to be even more successful.

Varsity Women's Tennis

It was a great season for our tennis players. Everyday, except for Fridays, these ladies would come afterschool to spend two hours of their time to practice and improve their skills. "What we really needed to work on was our serves. Luckily, we had Coach MSG Laxamana and Asst. Coach Paul there to give us a few pointers." He was the coach and the teams' #1 fan and best friend. He cheered the girls on, telling them that they can do anything if they tried their very best.

Now as a team, these girls gave it their all and won 4 games out of 12. On September 30, 2004, Encinal proudly won not only their first game as a team, but it was also a clean sweep, 7-0 against De Anza. For every game they lost, they used it as a motivation to do even better next time.

High energy season for the Jets

Soccer is a very vigorous sport. It requires dedication and teamwork and these guys have a lot of it. Consisting of a great coach and thirteen talented players, they did a lot better than last year. Scoring forty-one goals, having great instincts, excellent defense and offense and perfect timing. This year's Varsity soccer squad concentrated to improve as the season went on. Each day they would practice dribbling, passing, and scoring a goal, perfecting their skills. With their tenacious attitudes and "never quit" spirit, they made every game worth playing. The intense work done this year certainly bodes well for next years Varsity Men's Soccer team.

Building for next year

Anything guys can do, girls can do better!! Coach Mariscal did a fantastic job at coaching the team. In every game, they were able to prove their dedication. With their skills, they surpassed other schools they faced. Their hard work gave a sense of accomplishment and pride to the team; because of this, the season was a success. Even though there were rough times, they were able to get through it by sticking with each other and supporting every member of the team. Practices everyday improved their skills and their wisdom of the game. The team knows that next year, that they will do even better.

Splish, splash they're taking a bath... NOT! It's the sound of the EHS swim team. This years' swimmers consisted of experience and energy. This season proved that swimming is definitely a team sport. Swimmers are unselfishly, willing to give up the praise to help the team's overall performance. The long and tiring practices were the key to their success. The team was co-ed, which allowed young men and ladies to work together and develop each other's strengths. At the meets, the team's morale was high and anyone could tell that they had faith in their abilities. There were many veterans that swam with experience. Most of the freshmen basketball players plan on returning for next years' season, looking for spots on the Junior Varsity and Varsity team. BREAKING BOUNDARIES

LET ME HEAR YOU SAY UNNGGHH....

They came, we saw. They battled, we won. It's all about style; from handstands, to flips, to six-steps, windmills, hand glides and many more.... Breaking Boundaries was the event that everyone anticipated. Just after Spring Break, 8th of April 2005, everyone flocked inside the Encinal gym to either perform or just to sit back and enjoy this entertaining event. Bboys and Bgirls came from all around the bay just to do their thing and show off their style. Each and every one of them possessed a unique talent. Break-dancing isn't just having a love for the dance, there are also a set of standards that every Bboy and Bgirl must follow. Although they battle and compete, they are expected to give respect and appreciation to their competition. It isn't about dissing someone just because they disapprove of the person they went up against, it is about coming together in peace, respect, and love.

Samantha Mah, the host of this event, did an excellent job in organizing it.

JROTC

One of the many programs we have here at Encinal is our JROTC program, which is instructed by 1SG William Allen and MSG Alfonso Laxamana. They both teach their cadets how to become better citizens. You see, most people mistake JROTC as a preparation for the Armed Forces such as the Navy, Air Force, Marines, or the Army, but really it's all about motivating young people to be better citizens. This is done by increasing students' self confidence through better study habits, and working with and leading fellow cadets. Some of the things they learn include first aid, map reading, rifle marksmanship, leadership, communications, and drill and ceremonies. Every Thursday you see cadets wearing their Class A uniforms. These cadets wear their uniforms with pride and honor because the uniform says it all; it states their last name, rank, the awards that they have accomplished and the teams they have joined. Cadets always keep their Class A's clean for inspections, upcoming drill meets or for any other occasions. Drill meetings are the most fun; it's a chance to show other schools what Encinal JROTC is made of. From their loud chants to their excellent performances, Encinal's Jet Battalion is one of the best and they have the trophies to prove it.

Parents, Teachers, and Friends always come to watch and support their cadets.

The Junior ROTC Cadet Creed

I am an Army Junior ROTC cadet. I will always conduct myself to bring credit to my family, country, school, and the Corps of Cadets.

I am loyal and patriotic. I am the future of the United States of America.

I do not lie, cheat, or steal and will always be accountable for my actions and deeds.

I will always practice good citizenship and patriotism.

I will work hard to improve my mind and strengthen my body.

I will seek the mantle of leadership and stand prepared to uphold the Constitution and the American way of life.

May God grant me the strength to always live by this creed.

Encinal Jet Battalion's Color Guard

"Color guard this year was very unique," says C/ Captain Jenny Nguyen. They had a new captain unlike last year. The team teaches discipline by practicing every Thursday. And they have their 2nd place troply to prove it. These cadets work hard to achieve perfection because they are honoring both the US and California flag. You might have seen them at Homecoming, winter assembly, football games, drill meeings or in the gym practicing at 7 in the morning.

Drill Team

JROTC Drill team is a Varsity athletic team; it consists of a group of high school students that have the perserverance and dedication to learn and perfect marching with a standard eight-pound Springfield M1903 Rifle. All of the students are taught to perform with the rifle in synchronized movements. Drill Team is hard on the hands and requires weekly training in preparation gor the many performances and competitions each year.

10TH GRADE AVID

The AVID program we have here at Enciani is great. It gives students the training and skills needed to succeed in high school and it prepares them for college. Students learn how to manage their time wisely, set goals for their future, and learn note taking strategies. Twice a week, the students have tutorial during class. Tutors come in to help the students with any schoolwork. Once a week, speakers talk to the students about the difficulties of life and obstacles that everyone has to be ready to take on. The AVID students also get the opportunity to visit different colleges around the area, which allows them to see the differences between Universities, private schools, and state colleges. All in all, high school can be a very overwhelming place and the AVID program helps students handle all sorts of problems. Mr. Story, Mr. Halloran, and Ms. Cassidy are the three great AVID supporters that help these students tackle the difficulties of school.

The AVID class would like to thank Mr. Story for being the most helpful and understanding counselor ever. He has been there to listen, help, and support all his students. Not only has he been a counselor, he has been a loyal friend that a person can feel safe and comfortable to talk to. Even though this is Mr. Story s last year, we want him to know that we will never forget the great things he has done for us. We'll miss him dearly and wish him the best.

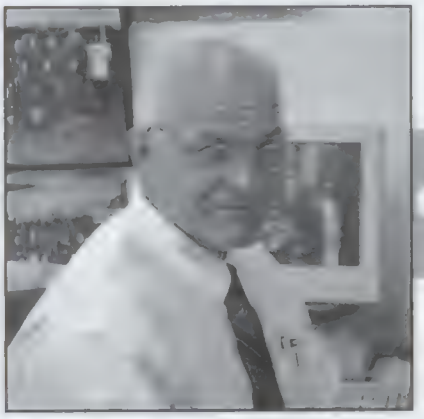
Baking cookies... Pushing DECA Doodles... Making money... that is what DECA is all about.

DECA is one of the most popular classes that we have here at Encinal High School. It is a club that is linked to many other chapters outside of California and the U.S.A. DECA is all about competition and becoming a member means you must be ready to compete. Competitions start locally at Nor-Cal in San Ramon with local high schools. The students that have worked hard and were focused get to move to state where they compete with all schools in California, fighting for a chance to advance to nationals to compete with all the DECA chapters in the world. Many DECA students who have competed said that it was an honor for them to be in this club because not only does it help you plan out a great field in the world of marketing but it gives you a feeling of achievement. This year DECA has established many things like Junior DECA, a club that prepares Sophomores and Freshmen who are not old enough to attend the class and the DECA web site, which includes lots of important information about the class and all its benefits. When you see a student in a Blue and Gold blazer beware because that is a DECA club member.

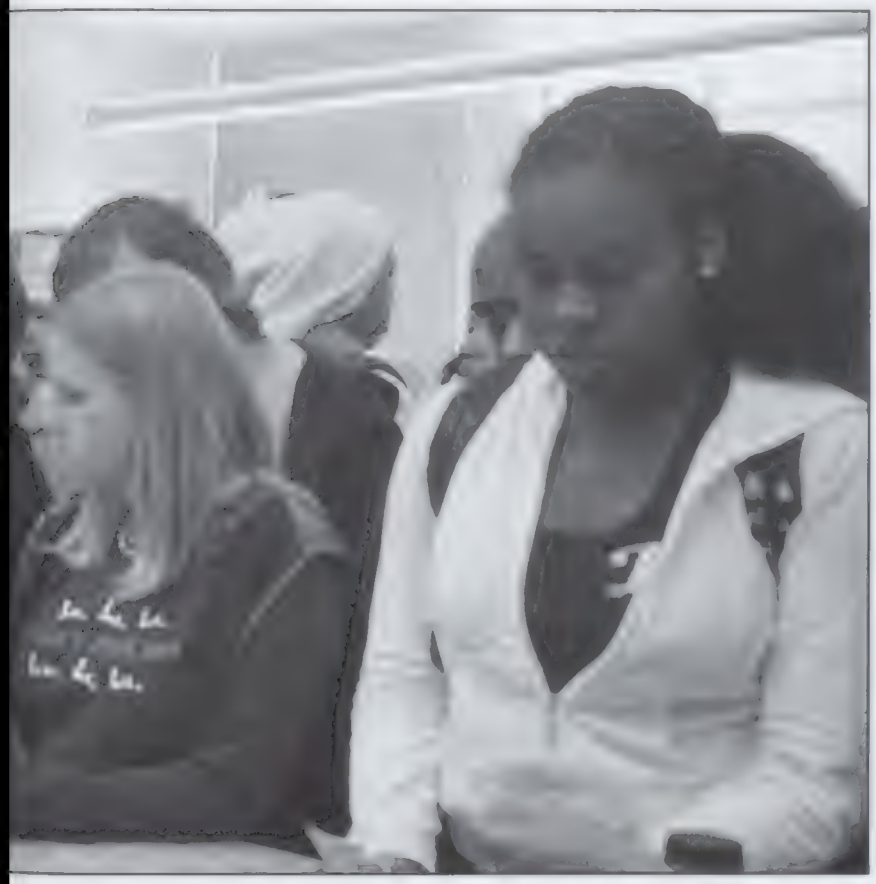
Erin Astrup, the DECA Chapter President makes sure that everything runs smoothly and the Encinal Chapter gets recognized.

Vice president, Addis Aklilu handles the scheduling of the DECA members.



Joe Mariscal is a man of wisdom and knowledge, who, as the DECA advisor, prepares his Marketing students for the world of business.

Junior DECA trains Freshmen and Sophomores as to how the Encinal DECA Chapter runs. During lunch time, Isaiah assists Kevin on how to keep the store running.



Kim Conocono, a first year DECA student is recognized for her motivation in Marketing class.

Picture this. It's a cold and gloomy winter Monday. School begins in twenty minutes and students are starting to arrive onto the Encinal High School campus. Everyone is still half asleep and begin to wander the hallways, heading towards their lockers. It is noticeable that every back is hunched and eyes look drooped. Not a peep can be heard and friends stare blankly at each other. Suddenly, a burst of life blossoms upon the entrance of a single person. It is none other than Caitlin Kenney. Within five minutes, conversations fill the air and the once gloomy faces have brightened. A good mood has been set just in time for the beginning of first period.

As a junior at Encinal, Caitlin faces one of her most important years of high school, yet, she doesn't focus all her attention on schoolwork. She makes time to participate in extracurricular activities, play a role in her class government, and she is sure to help others when they are not in the best mood. She is the personification of "animated." She brings any aspect of life to a new level. She involves herself in anything and everything, and brings a joyous enthusiasm to all she does.

Though Caitlin is a serious student who cares about her grades, there is a whole other side to her. When someone is in need of a friend, you can be sure that Caitlin will volunteer. Not only can she make friends and get along with anyone, she is loved by her fellow peers, and there are several reasons why. The most important being that when someone is feeling down, she is the person who tells stupid jokes or does just about anything to turn a frown upside down. She uses her imagination to create silly dances for the sake of laughter.

Being her cheery self, Caitlin has earned herself a spot and outgoing on the Varsity cheerleading squad. During those two-hour-long football games, she is on the sidelines, motivating the players with her cheers as well as putting on a show for the crowd. And when the audience is sitting on the bleachers quietly, you can count on Caitlin, as well as the rest of the cheerleaders, to start chanting their catchy cheers to rile everyone up. Of course, right when they begin, the crowd gets on their feet and chants along, as they know the words. For the rest of the night, the throng roars on.

Homecoming is one of the most important weeks at Encinal High School. All the classes are competing against one another to show once and for all who is the best. As co-publicist in her class government, Caitlin does everything possible to encourage every single one of her classmates to participate. Along with fellow class officers, she decorates her class' hallway to prove that they are the most spirited. Not only does it show spirit, it livens up the usual blue and white hallways by giving it a bit of bright color.

Every year, Encinal produces several plays. Sure enough, Caitlin can be found among the cast members. Her parts aren't minors ones either. This year, she landed the leading role in the spring musical, "The Sound of Music." Her beautiful voice and great acting abilities leave the audience in awe. When the final curtain is drawn, there is sure to be a wild applause, along with an encore.

While some people seem to be depressed everyday, Caitlin is the total opposite. Each day, she can be found on the campus of Encinal with a beaming smile upon her face. Plus, she has excessive energy within her. Friendliness, laughter, and fun makes spending time around her wonderful. Whether it be in the classroom, on the playing field, or on the stage, any place with the presence of Caitlin Kenney is sure to be filled with life; there will be no silence. Caitlin animates every situation and those around her.

"The minute people stop caring about how others see them, then they're free to be whoever they want to be."

Encinal students, show us what you got! You better bring it!! Strut your stuff! The 2005 Talent Show was a great success. There were sixteen outstanding performances with categories such as singing, dancing, and many more. All performers came with their own unique style. The judges, along with the audience, watched intently as they chose who the winning numbers would be in all the categories. For singing, the first place winner was Brianna Dixon. The second runner-up was a duet, Maria Dixon and James Walker. Following them for third place was Yesenia Martinez singing a Spanish song.

In the dancing category, the first place winner was Nick Bauri and his cousins, A.J., Arvin, Myron, and Kris (Da Crew). Second place was Ariana, Cahrey, and Samantha and placing third was a solo by John Padriquilla. And for the "other" categories, the first place winners were our very own EHS Drumline, second was Lewis Hom and his Rubix Cube and the third place winners were our rappers Dominique Dozier, Karesha Goodman, Sharesa Miller, and Johnny Manibusan.

DANCES

The dances at EHS are many things but boring isn't one of them. It doesn't matter if you have a date or not just come "put on your red shoes and dance." This year's four dances including homecoming were all successes. It's great to see all the Jets having a good time.

Rumba, boogy salsa, tango dance...you name it! Every EHS Dance creates a great opportunity to meet new people, learn new moves, let off steam, or just plain shake your groove thing. Each dance has its own theme and is put on by different classes. But they all have one thing in common, they're fun fun fun.

"Some people say It's the music that makes the dance. Other people think it's the people that make the dance. I think they're the same like peanut butter and jelly; without one you're missing something, but with both you're definetely going to jam."

Unity Week

Ah, Unity Week is one of the most popular weeks in which the students look forward to, in addition to Thanksgiving break/Fall break, Spring break, etc. This year, Unity Week was the week before Spring Break in March. In a way, it "prepared" the students for a long and restful, and of course, fun week. This festive week started off with a Tropical Monday, where students dressed in tropical apparel. The next day was Twin Tuesday, followed by Wacky-Tacky Wednesday, and Toga Thursday. Finally, the week ended with a Cultural Friday. The Unity Assembly was on Thursday, in which there were various performances from a variety of different cultures and groups. The Unity Fair itself, unfortunately, had to be postponed until May, due to a possibility of rain.

Students sprang from class to class, with each class containing just enough minutes for their teachers to take attendance. Then they were off to a few free hours of culture, food, and fun. The fair was filled with a variety of "booths"; there was a variety of different foods, drinks, activities, and games. Both the students and the staff not only satisfied their taste buds with delicious food from different cultures, they got the chance to satisfy their viewing pleasure with different cultural dances and performances, which were performed on an outdoor stage. The Unity Fair was a wonderful cultural experience with music blasting from the stereos, culture, and unity.

3. Hazel Sarmiento moves to the rhythm of the music with her Tahitian dance.
4. The audience listens intently to the catchy beat of the drums as Aldrin and Chukwudi perform their drumline routine.

Erin Alfred and Johnny Manibusan want to sit and enjoy their lunch, but with a test to study for, it doesn't seem like enjoying food is at the top of their list.

When it comes to lunch, Richard Janes and Daniel Vega have a motto, "Each man for himself."

1. Earl Campbell says his favorite thing to do at lunch is play basketball. 2. Jeremy Acala says his favorite thing to do at lunch is play around with his friends. 3. Michelle Opdyk says her favorite thing to do at lunch is to spend time with her boyfriend. 4. Amecia Young says her least favorite thing to do is serve detention.

Lots of sports are played during lunch, from basketball to soccer to football to hacky sack, but no matter which sport you play, you'll always have fun.

Mr. Czechowski is usually giving the students lessons, but today Hadi Al-Jumaie and Shannon Barquero are giving him a lesson in music.

Lunch Time

Encinal students flock to the four corners of Alameda seeking whatever makes their taste buds tingle the EHS campus so much more than eating takes place and what goes on all depends on where you are! But one overriding fact remains... time is of the essence. Food, friends, fun and frantic studying all takes place at a harried pace. Getting in as much sustenance is what lunch is all about.

When it comes to on campus dining, Deca is one of the most popular places to go. When you can get three cookies for a dollar, it makes more sense.

1. Eating lunch is one thing, but getting back to class on time is a totally different story. Sean Henry and Jan Campo find out this is a hard lesson to learn.

2. Briana Dixon and Eric Fountain invest in some ice cream on a hot summer day, but they can't remember whose turn it was to pay.

Left: Bethany de los Reyes is finds out that she has a substitute for next periods class which makes lunch that much more enjoyable.

Below: Mr. Horwitz knows there's not much time for lunch as he saves the small talk with the other teachers to eat his cheese and crackers.

You can usually hear him before you see him…a booming voice echoes down the corridor greeting practically everyone there. When he finally does come into view, the first thing you notice is a smile so big, it lights things up. As he gets closer, you see the twinkle in his eyes and feel the enthusiastic energy around him. This, of course could only be Oscar Rojas, the Encinal High School ASB President. Oscar is a "Dear Leader," "Mr. Encinal," and the "Encinated One." Meeting Oscar on the campus is to feel better about yourself and your school. His infectious enthusiasm for life, and especially life at Encinal High School, makes him stand out as the most "Encinated" individual this year. When you look up the word "Encinated" in the dictionary (if it were a real word you actually could) you would find a picture of Oscar there.

It wasn't always this way for Oscar. He was born in Guadalajara Mexico, the first child of Jacob and Angelina Rojas. After the birth of his sister Priscilla, the family moved to the United States. Two more children soon followed. When Oscar reached school age he went to De Colores School in Oakland followed by elementary school, also in Oakland. Oscar transferred to San Leandro John Muir School for 6th and 7th grade. It was during the 7th grade that he found and joined "Leadership." It was here that the somewhat directionless Oscar found his calling. He loved his leadership class at John Muir. During his 8th grade year, Oscar's parents transferred him once again, this time to Will C. Wood School in Alameda, a.k.a. Beaver land. Oscar recalls Wood School as "the happiest place on earth."

Oscar followed Mr. Sonneman to Encinal High instead of going to Alameda High which he had originally planned to do. He calls that decision one of "the best decisions of my life."

Oscar came to Encinal and hit the ground with his feet running. He threw himself into life at EHS. He played Varsity Soccer as a freshman and captain. He joined the Latino Club and even became in his Latino heritage. His junior year is when took great pride from being a student involved in extra curricular Oscar went to being a completely involved student. He activities leadership class, was his class' Spirit Commissioner, joined Club President, and Varsity Soccer Captain. He reached Latino highest student office at the school his Senior year when the took over as EHS ASB President. He is not shy about it nor is he embarrassed to say "I love this school." He finds the combination of Encinal's diverse student body and committed faculty to be inspiring.

Students like Oscar Rojas are rare. They have an almost spiritual quality which allows them to see the good in people and institutions. Without naiveté they focus on the positive and inspire others around them to do the same. We at Encinal have been fortunate to have had someone like Oscar to inspire us to a deeper commitment to and love of our school. Oscar Rojas is totally "Encinated," now he hopes the rest of us will be too.

Family is the one thing that everyone has. No matter how hard you try to get rid of them, they will always be a part of you. In some cases it's the other way around.

Imagine... it's a sunny afternoon and you, your sibling, and someone else is getting ready to get in the car. All of a sudden you hear your sibling yell, "Shotgun!" Automatically you say, "No, it's my turn to sit in the front." This is the beginning of yet another epic battle between the two of you. We have all experienced this, or at least something similar to it. Family will always be a part of your life.

Family... you can't live with them, and you can't live without them.

Pasta Feed

Pasta Feed is an annual event which helps the Senior class raise money for Senior events. This year's Senior class was fortunate enough to have a professional chef prepare the pasta. The exquisite pasta, salad and assorted desserts brought smiles to the supporters of this year's Pasta Feed. What made this event successful were the support and contributions of many relatives, faculty and students that attended and participated. While the senior participants were dressed in their uniforms and assigned to their tables, they waited to serve. The professional chef made delicious marinara, roasted garlic marinara and sun dried tomato cream sauce.

May you grow up to be righteous,
May you grow up to be true...
May you always do for others
And let others do for you.
May you build a ladder to the stars
And climb on every rung,
May you stay forever young...

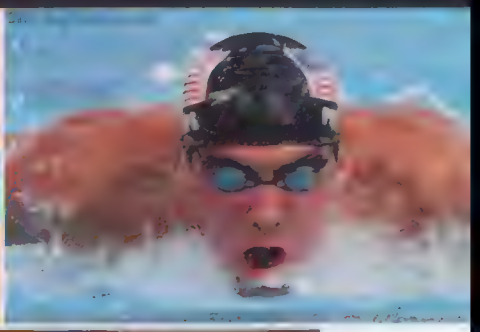
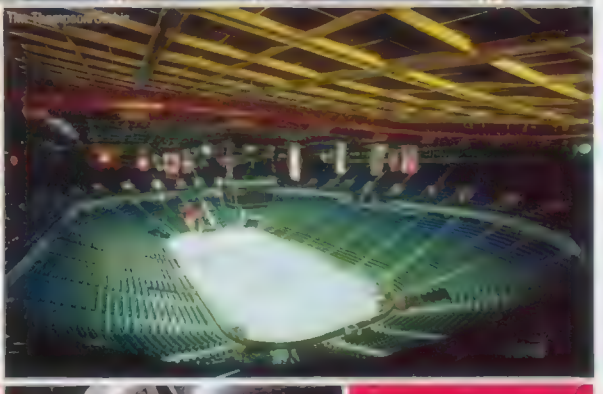
Carly Patterson joins Mary Lou Retton as the only American gymnasts to win the women's all-around Olympic gold medal.

Michael Phelps swims his way to eight individual Olympic medals, six gold and two bronze.



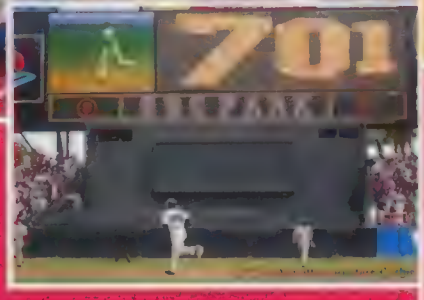
ATHENS 2004

Together for the last time, the "Fab Five" of U.S. women's soccer — Julie Foudy, Joy Fawcett, Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly and Brandi Chastain — bring home an Olympic gold medal.

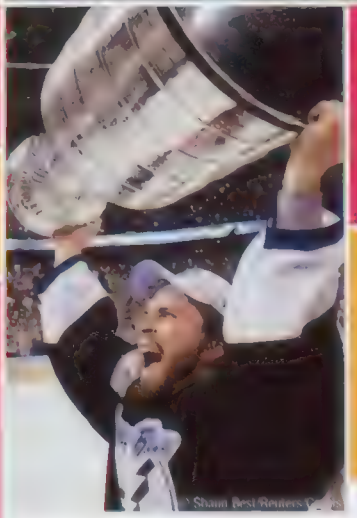


Kurt Busch wins the NASCAR Nextel Cup. It is his first career title and the closest battle in cup history.

The Detroit Pistons, led by Ben Wallace and finals MVP Chauncey Billups, win the 2004 NBA title.



Barry Bonds joins Babe Ruth and Hank Aaron as baseball's only 700+ home run hitters. However, his performance falls under scrutiny after it is revealed that Bonds and other major leaguers have been using illegal steroids.



The NHL takes the 2004-2005 season off as players and team owners fail to come to an agreement on players' salary limitations.

The Tampa Bay Lightning claim the 2004 NHL Stanley Cup by winning the seventh game of the Stanley Cup Finals 2-1 over the Calgary Flames.

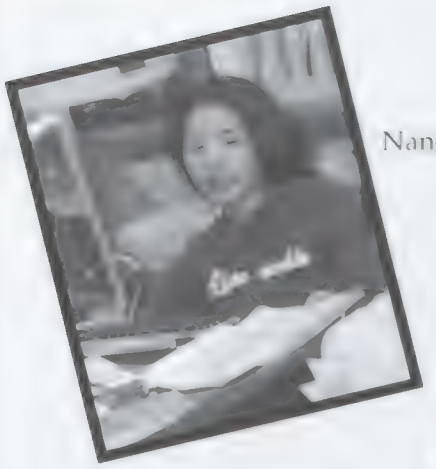
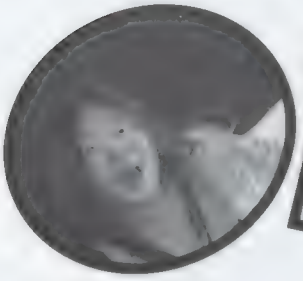
Yearbook's Dynamic Duo



Nancy Ng



Angela Au

To produce a comprehensive yearbook, that catalogues an entire school year, is a monumental task. This year's edition of the Horizon is the largest (in terms of number of pages) and the most technically complex book ever done at Encinal High School. There are two people responsible for organizing and directing the efforts of the 2004-2005 Yearbook class in order to produce this book. Nancy Ng and Angela Au took it upon themselves to take your yearbook to the next level. Yearbook requires of its students that they work on many Saturday and long hours after school to get the job done. While many students worked some Saturdays and some students worked after school occasionally, Nancy and Angela worked virtually every Saturday and every after school hour necesary to make our deadlines. They kept the book on track. Self taught on professional level graphic design software, they sought to improve every aspect of the yearbook, from picture quality, to writing and especiallygraphic presentation. Nancy and Angela have been yearbooks' "Dynamic Duo" for the past two years and were the primary movers on the 2004 edition of the Horizon as well. Without them and their incredible dedication, along with countless hours of hard work and overtime, this yearbook would not exist. So, if you like the book (and even if you don't) you might want to say a word of thanks to these two dedicated members of the class of 2005.

Congratulations to all the "Beavers" and the rest of the Class of 2005. Go forward with Jet Pride. Good luck in all you choose to do.

2005 Horizon Colophon

The Encinal High "Horizon" (Volume 50) is a two hundred twenty page book created with the talents of twenty-two students in the yearbook class. The cover is a custom litho using photographs taken by Yearbook students. The cover was designed by our Cover Committee consisting of Dominique Dozier, Nancy Ng, Luisa Bailey and Kevin Tran. The large picture is a late fall shot of the front of the school. The smaller pictures are symbols for the eight sub-themes of overall theme "What we are is..." The book is published digitally using Apple Macintosh computers. Our pictures are taken with our Canon digital SLR Cameras (one a 10D and the other a Digital Rebel). Our pages are created using Adobe InDesign graphic software coupled with Josten's proprietary plug-in Yeartech. Jostens is our publisher. The book is printed in Visalia, California. Our scheduled delivery date was May 30th, 2005.
